

EARLY VOTE IS UNPRECEDENTED

Magnitude of Vote Cast in Ohio Today Surprisingly Heavy—Returns on Prohibition Will be Slow Owing to Local Contests—Suffrage Up in Ten States, While Few Vote For Governor.

By Associated Press.

Chief interest, in elections being held in ten states today, appeared to center in the proposition for granting suffrage to women, submitted to the voters of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Voters of Massachusetts, Maryland and Kentucky are also balloting for governor and other state officers, while state-wide prohibition is the feature of the Ohio election and other state or local issues are before the people in New Jersey, Mississippi, Michigan and Virginia.

Generally fair weather prevailed throughout New York state, and a heavy early vote was reported. The woman suffrage question appeared to be the chief issue. Women watchers were at every polling place in New York City.

Officials of the Anti-Saloon League reported indications were that one third of the total vote in cities and villages had been recorded before 8:30.

Cincinnati reports were that a number of deputy sheriffs had been sworn in there to prevent irregularities at the polls, at the request of prohibition workers. Similar action was taken at Cleveland and several other cities.

FULL VOTE OUT IN CINCINNATI

By Associated Press.

Cincinnati, November 2.—About 60 per cent of the vote here was in by 11 o'clock today.

Both wet and dry workers were conspicuous at almost every precinct.

Owing to the unusual interest in the prohibition contest, political observers predicted that approximately a full vote would be cast.

FIRST CANVASS OF VOTE IS IN

Boston, November 2.—Returns from Acushnet, the first received from today's election in Massachusetts, gave for governor: McCall, Republican, 110; Walsh, Democrat, 48.

The vote on the suffrage amendment stood: for, 44; against, 109.

CLEVELAND VOTE HEAVY

By Associated Press.

Cleveland, November 2.—At noon fifty per cent of the registered vote had been cast here.

The result on mayor and other city issues will be much delayed because state issues here will be counted first.

ORPHANAGE IS DESTROYED

By Associated Press.

Harrisburg, Pa., November 2.—Sylvan Heights Orphanage was destroyed by fire today, but its 103 children, who were attending mass in the chapel when the flames were discovered, were marched to safety.

SEVERAL WOUNDED ON AMERICAN SIDE

By Associated Press.

Douglas, Arizona, November 2.—General Villa's army, reinforced by troops from Naco, early today renewed the attack against the Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta. The losses on both sides are believed to be considerable.

About 1 o'clock Villa started a general attack with artillery, and the Carranza garrison replied with machine guns, rifles and the explosion of mines along the front over which they expected the Villa charge.

After more than an hour's engagement the firing ceased.

Bullets reaching the American side of the boundary had wounded five persons, according to reports available early today.

INFIRMARY BURNS TODAY

Lebanon, O., November 2.—The Warren County Infirmary here burned today, entailing a loss of $50,000. The 150 inmates were rescued.

Crosset wires in the attic is believed to have caused the blaze.

17 INJURED IN EXPLOSION

Wilmington, Del., November 2.—Seventeen men were badly injured by a heavy explosion of a large quantity of powder at No. 1 plant of the Dupont Powder Works, at Carney's Point, N. J.

ROUMANIA SOON TO JOIN ALLIES

New Classes of Roumanians Called to Colors — Austria Claims Italian Offensive Has Collapsed — Greece is Favoring Allies — Premier Asquith Says Financial Situation Serious in England, but is Sure of Success — Tells Former Secrets.

By Associated Press.

London, November 2.—News coming by way of Paris lends support to the growing impression that Roumania is preparing to intervene in the war on the side of the entente allies.

New classes of Roumanian recruits are being mobilized.

Vienna reports that a "grave situation" may arise between Austria and Roumania in connection with the proposed use of the lower Danube to transport Russian troops to Bulgaria.

London, November 2.—In his address before the House of Commons this afternoon, Premier Asquith states that Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British forces on the Franco-Belgian front, was now in command of nearly 1,000,000 men.

Mr. Asquith said the total casualties in France and Flanders amounted to 377,000.

He asserted the Germans had not made a net gain of a foot of ground since April.

The premier asserted that the financial situation of Great Britain was serious, and that the nation must be prepared to make far greater sacrifices than it has yet done to enable it to sustain the burden imposed by the war.

He said there was full agreement between Great Britain and France to maintain the independence of Serbia and not let her "become the prey of the sinister and nefarious combination of Germany, Austria and Bulgaria."

Reviewing the work of British submarines in the Turkish campaign he said that in the Sea of Marmora they had sunk or damaged two battleships, five gunboats, one torpedo boat, eight transports and 197 supply ships.

Mr. Asquith asserted he was as confident as ever that the allies were to carry the righteous power to a triumphant issue, and he was not going to shift the burden from his shoulders until satisfied he was unable to bear it.

He would not surrender the task

as long as he enjoyed health and the confidence of the king and the country.

He made the announcement that former Premier Venizelos of Greece whose advocacy of intervention in the war on the side of the entente allies led to his resignation, asked France and Great Britain on September 21 for 150,000 men, with the express understanding that Greece would mobilize.

The premier also said he strongly believed the recruiting plan of the Earl of Derby would succeed, and that compulsion would be unnecessary.

London, November 1.—The great Italian offensive launched a fortnight ago has broken down, the Austrian War Office declares in a statement today, after the loss of 150,000 men by the attacking forces.

British and French transports, with troops on board, have appeared off Kavala, Greece, a Berlin newspaper announces, apparently presaging the landing of new allied forces for operations in the Balkans.

Athens dispatches declare the attitude of Greece toward the entente allies is becoming more favorable.

Berlin, November 1.—Cacak, an important junction point in Serbia, about 30 miles to the southwest of Kraguevatz, has been occupied by the Teutonic forces engaged in the Serbian invasion, it was officially announced today.

13 DIE IN FIRE

By Associated Press.

New York, November 1.—Thirteen persons, of whom six were men, three women and three children, lost their lives in a fire which destroyed a tenement house in Brooklyn early today. All were Poles.

WILLARD TO DEFEND BELT

By Associated Press.

New Orleans, November 2.—Jesse Willard, world's champion heavy-weight, and his manager said today that they had agreed with Dominick Tortorich and Tommy Burns, local fight promoters, to sign a contract for Willard to defend his title in a twenty-round bout in this city the first week in March.

It was stated Willard's opponent could be either Frank Moran, Fred Fulton or Jim Coffey.

Election Returns Tonight on The Herald Screen

There is wide-spread interest in the result of the election today. Washington and Fayette county people are interested in the result of the balloting on the state-wide proposals, and also in the result of the local election.

The Herald, through its unequalled news-gathering facilities, will be able to give the result of the balloting the instant results are known.

The big canvass was placed in position today, and every bulletin will be displayed for the information of the public.

KEEN INTEREST IN STATE ELECTIONS

Balloting Proceeding Today
In Several States.

SUFFRAGE THE BIG ISSUE

Voters of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts Passing Upon the Question While the Leaders of Both Sides Remain Confident.
Elections Also Being Held in Kentucky and Maryland.

New York, Nov. 2.—Elections are being held today in several states, including New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Woman suffrage is the main issue in these three commonwealths.

Kentucky is electing state officials today. Among five candidates for governor the principal struggle has been between former Congressman A.
O. Stanley, Democrat of Henderson, and Edwin P. Morrow, Republican, of Somerset. All state officers, one-half of the state senate and all members of the lower house of the general assembly will be chosen.

The legislature to be chosen at today's election in Maryland will be asked to pass upon a statewide proposition bill. The Anti-Saloon league believes that the vigorous campaign for temperance, just closed, will obtain enough votes to insure the enactment of the measure. Woman suffrage was also an issue, although not so vigorously pushed, and the next legislature will be asked to submit the question to the voters.

In New York a revised constitution, drawn by a convention with Elihu Root as its president at Albany last summer, also is being voted on, and three congressmen, a full assembly, eleven supreme court justices and some county and city officials are to be elected, but all these questions are running poor seconds in interest to equal suffrage. More than 6,000 women are working as watchers at the polls today.

Leaders of both sides expressed optimism regarding the result of the election. The estimates of the suffragist leaders are more conservative than those of the anti-suffragists.
Tammany claims to be strictly neutral in the suffrage fight.

In Massachusetts leaders of both sides are awaiting the outcome with anxiety. The suffragists declined to give figures on the victory which they expect. The opposition claims a majority of 100,000 against the amendment. A vigorous campaign has been waged by the suffragists.

Much interest has been aroused throughout Pennsylvania in the vote on the women's suffrage amendment to the state constitution at today's election. The suffragists have conducted a spectacular campaign, including a tour of every one of the sixty-seven counties, with a replica of the Liberty Bell. A keenly contested majority campaign has been waged in Philadelphia.

Heavy Vote In Ohio.
Columbus, Nov. 2.—Reports received here up to noon indicate that a heavy vote is being polled today throughout the state, the fight for and against the proposed prohibition amendment attracting thousands to the polls. The early vote cast in Cincinnati, Cleveland and other large cities was exceptionally heavy. Reports from rural districts also indicate a large vote.

HUNGRY CREW

New York, Nov. 2.—The American liner New York, in from Liverpool, bore down on the three-masted American schooner Frederic A. Duggan, lying in the trough of a rough sea, sails furled and flying signals asking for food. Captain Roberts went near enough and learned that the Duggan had been seventy-five days out from Queens town with a cargo of china clay for Philadelphia and had gotten only 500 miles from the Irish coast.
She was then about 600 miles west of Queens town. Captain Hansen said he and his crew had nothing to eat in four days. Six volunteers, with Chief Officer Turner, manned a lifeboat and took 100 pounds of beef and a barrel of flour to the schooner. The Dug-gan's skipper said he would head for a British port for repairs and supplies.

WILL RETURN
LARGE SUMS

Columbus, Nov. 2.—At a meeting of the Ohio exposition commission it was pointed out to the governor that nearly $10,000 has been saved by the commission in salary appropriation alone, half of maintenance fund, and that over $15,000 of the $25,000 special exhibit fund will be returned to the state treasury, in all $35,000. In addition to this it is believed that more than $10,000 will be realized from the sale of furniture of the Ohio building.

Commissioner Charles Allen reported that the Ohio display of poultry is ready and a carload of everything in the poultry line from pigeons to pe-trels will go forward Saturday. Ohio will be the only eastern state represented at the poultry exhibit.

Clothing, household goods, dishes, cooking utensils, in fact every thing finds a ready sale, so don't neglect

CAPTURE ARSENAL

Occupy Kragujevac and Capture Enemy's Positions.

FRENCH REPULSE BULGARS

Attempts of Latter to Throw Allied Troops Out of Their Northern Positions On the Vardar Prove Futile.
Outer Forts of Nish Reported Under Bombardment—French Retake Kotchan Pass.

London, Nov. 2.—Berlin officially announces the capture by German troops of Kragujevac, the great Serbian arsenal. West of Kragujevac the Germans, after taking Milanovac, are pressing south and announce the capture of the heights south of the town and Trivunovo mountain. In the capture of the heights several hundred Serbians were taken prisoners.

The outer forts of Nish are now under bombardment by the Bulgarian artillery advancing from Kniazevats and Plotitsa.

The Bulgarians attempted to throw the French troops out of their northernmost positions based on Krivolak on the Vardar river, twelve miles south of Istip. At the Bulgarian approach French advanced detachments scouting in the direction of Kuprili, withdrew to Krivolak, and here a division of French troops awaited the attack. Three attempts were made by the Bulgars to carry the position by storm, but the French artillery on the flanks caught them in a cross fire while the infantry poured in a heavy rifle fire from the front. The Bulgars hesitated under the fire, and the French, taking advantage of the momentary halt, leaped from the trenches and drove the Bulgarians into the Vardar. Recent rains have added to the depth and current of the river and many of the Bulgars were drowned.

A dispatch from Salonica to Paris says that the French have retaken the Kotchan pass and have driven the Bulgarians out of the district surrounding Kuprili, the town and railroad still remaining in the hands of the Bulgars.

An Athens dispatch states that the British expeditionary force has had its first engagement near Strumitza.
Official news of the operations is still lacking, but its present position would indicate that the allies intend making a strong counter movement against Pulgarina from the southwest, with Strumitza as their first goal. No further news has been received of the Russian force estimated at 200,000 men, which is supposed to be trying to effect a landing on the Bulgarian Black sea coast.

OHIO NEWSLETS

Telegraphers Reject Compromise.
Cincinnati, Nov. 2.—The offer of a 2 1/2 per cent increase, made by General Manager H. A. Worcester of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company, was rejected by a committee representing the telegraphers of the railroad.

Elevator and Mills Burn.
Osborne, O., Nov. 2.—The Tranch-ant-Flinnell flour mills and grain elevator were destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of about $50,000. The plant of the Ohio Whelp company, across the street from the flour mill, also was burned, with an estimated loss of $6,000.

Gun Accidentally Discharged.
Middletown, O., Nov. 2.—George H.
Hervey, secretary and general manager of a large paper company here, was probably fatally shot while hunting near here. Together with his brother, Thomas Hervey, and George Neibel, he was hunting rabbits, when Neibel's gun was accidentally discharged, the shot lodging in Hervey's head.

Prisoner Flees When Officers Fight.
Urbana, O., Nov. 2.—While Marshal Harnish and Night Watchman Keith engaged in a fight at West Liberty the latter's prisoner escaped. The two have not been friends. Keith had arrested Oscar McLain, who was wanted for assault, and took him to jail. Marshal Harnish arrived and insisted upon searching the prisoner.
Keith protested and the fight was on.

Land Owner Shot.
Lima, O., Nov. 2.—John Hauenstein, wealthy property owner, was found in his office shot through the head.
He has a chance for recovery. Police are investigating the case on the theory that the shooting was an attempt at murder, and search is being made for two convicts recently received at the Lima state hospital from the Ohio penitentiary who escaped from the hospital.

Work of Gunmen.
Akron, O., Nov. 2.—Two gunmen shot down four persons, one woman and three men, wounding two fatally.
The shooting took place in the home of Mrs. Clara Frolo. Both gunmen escaped in the darkness. Victims of the gunmen are: Mrs. Clara Frolo, Nicholas Frolo, John Vatalaro and Albert Avillino. Nicholas Frolo and Albert Vatalaro are fatally wounded. Police are searching for Francisco and Dominick Desetissi, brothers, who, it is charged, are the assailants.

HERE'S NEW VIGOR FOR OVERWORKED STOMACHS

Brown's Drug Store, the popular druggists, have been in the drug business long enough to have their own opinions of the best way of selling medicines. They say the plan adopted by Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia remedy, is the fairest they have ever heard of. They don't believe that a medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. And Mi-o-na is sold under a positive guarantee to relieve dyspepsia or to refund the money. You simply leave 50 cents on deposit with Brown's Drug Store and if, after you have used the box of Mi-o-na you decide that it has done you no good, all you have to do is to tell them so and they will return your money.

Hundreds of people have been relieved of stomach agonies by using this remarkable remedy. It is not simply a food digester; it is a medicine that puts all of the digestive organs into normal condition and gives ruddy, glowing, vigorous health. A change for the better will be seen after the first few doses of Mi-o-na, and its continued use will soon give the power to eat anything

VESSEL

QUESTION OWNERSHIP OF AMERICAN BOAT

British to Take Hocking Before the Prize Court.

Washington, Nov. 2.—That the British government intends to challenge the neutrality and ownership of the American steamer Hocking, which has been seized by British cruisers and taken before the British admiralty court at Halifax, N. S., seems to be assured. Reports that the vessel was being brought to Halifax in charge of a prize crew was received at the state department from Consul General Young at Halifax.
The Hocking was formerly a Danish vessel and was one of ten vessels given American register this summer after its purchase by the American Transatlantic Steamship company, a firm incorporated in Delaware.

At the time of transfer the department of commerce asked the state department if there were any objections to the granting of registration.
The inquiry was made because the officials had reason to believe that the transaction was open to challenge, the charge being made in certain quarters that the ten ships were originally German, that the transfer to Danish registry was merely a blind and that beneficiary interests remained with German capitalists. The state department held, however, that the vessels might later be required to prove actual neutral character and the validity of transfer of registry.

That such action should be taken against the vessels of the company was surmised here after England announced that she had abrogated the rule of the declaration of London, which provides that the enemy or neutral character of a vessel is determined by the character of the flag
she is entitled to fly.

The state department expects that owners of the Hocking will shortly protest against her seizure. It is probable that the state department will then call on Great Britain for release of the ship.

PROSPERITY IS FILLING LAND CLAIM BANKERS

Washington, Nov. 2.—A swelling tide of prosperity is sweeping over the country, in the opinion of the reserve agents for the twelve federal reserve banks. This highly optimistic viewpoint was expressed in the report on business conditions received by the federal reserve boards from agents and made public here. Business in the past month has shown a buoyancy sufficient to overcome the dark "spots" which had been commented on in early reports, with the result that all sections abound in confidence. Perhaps the most encouraging feature of the reports is the note taken in many of them of the recent invigoration of domestic business as differentiated from that affected by war orders which many persons have until now regarded as the uncertain foundation of the apparent prosperity which had come upon the country.

Serbia's Sorry Plight

Serbia is being crushed between the ponderous war machines of the Austro-Germans and the Bulgarians. The steady advance of the great Teuton army is kept up across Serbian soil with comparatively little of opposition to check it, while in the rear the Bulgars are strong enough to cut off any chance for the brave little Serbian army to escape from annihilation or surrender.

Little Serbia is putting every ounce of strength and blood into the heroic struggle to retard the advantage of the Teutons until relief comes from her allies. Russia is straining every nerve to rush relief to the beleaguered Serbs and England and France are doing everything in their power to extend a helping hand to the little Balkan state now so sorely pressed.

The mad race for the road through to Turkey and the Dardanelles continues with unabated fury and upon whether the right of way is finally secured by the Teutons or the entente allies, depends the life of Turkey as a nation in Europe and the fate of the campaign for the opening of the narrow straits which separate Europe from Asia.

Thus far the campaign has brought success to the armies of the Kaiser and Frances Joseph and disaster to the Serbian forces reinforced by a handful of English, French and Russians.

The superb German military machine is writing again the story of success that was written in Belgium, in France and in Poland.

The single point of great difference is that in the former drives there was a measure of excuse for the failure of the allies while in the present there seems to be little or no reasonable explanation for the neglect to provide for the contingency which if its happening could not have been prevented could certainly have been guarded against.

That the entente allies have blundered in the Balkan situation is admitted by all military experts and that the Teutons have been quick to profit by that blunder is too well established to be strengthened by acknowledgment.

The Pre-Election Statements

With the close of the polls this evening the people are through, for a time at least, of hearing and reading the patriotic utterances and unselfish proffers of service by the numerous candidates for office who are willing to sacrifice all personal aims to be chosen public servants.

This is a day and age of political advertisements. The candidates and their supporters have learned that the people no longer "flock" to partisan meetings, convinced before hand, only to have their prejudices and preferences appealed to and praised. This is a day when people demand facts and refuse absolutely to allow anyone to do all their thinking for them.

Consequently the candidates for office and the supporters of this, that and the other proposal have hit upon the plan of sending "facts" for the consumption of the voters through all the avenues which carry facts to the voters. Naturally the avenue of information in greatest favor is the press and for days before the election the newspapers are literally jammed with statements, platforms and promises.

Second only to the newspapers as a fact carrying agency comes the circular letter and mail combination. What the voters fail to receive either through the columns of the newspapers or the circular letters is only that which the resourceful imagination of the campaign managers fail to suggest.

Laws enacted for the purpose of restricting this volume of advertising and fixing responsibility for its circulation have resulted in bringing about just exactly the reverse result.

If a stranger from a strange land would just happen to drop into any municipality in the United States on the eve of election and read the political announcements he could not fail to be impressed with the high class of men who offered to enter the public service.

Well this is a great land and we never do things half heartedly, even the candidates pre-election statements in bidding for votes, are all that could be expected as the production of a vivid American imagination.

Influence of Environment More Potent Than That of Heredity
By Dr. J. GARDNER SMITH, Expert in Eugenics

YOU can shake your fist at your ancestral skeleton in the closet, no matter if he's drunkard, thief or murderer. You haven't inherited his crime nor the obligation to follow in his footsteps. HEREDITY IS A FACTOR IN OUR LIVES, BUT I BELIEVE THAT ENVIRONMENT AND PERSONAL DETERMINATION COUNT FOR A GREAT DEAL MORE.

It isn't what a child inherits from his parents; it's the example they set him, the surroundings they give him, the methods they use in training him, that determine his criminality or the reverse.

Parents are subjecting a child to unnecessary moral risks when they fail to give him a sound, strong body and to inspire him with a fondness for work. As for the value of work—well, you know who is famed for supplying idle hands with mischief.

Poetry For Today
DIRGE OF USED-TO-BE.
In the dark and gloomy graveyard of the Things-That-Used- to-Be, A group of ghosts were gathered 'neath a weeping willow tree. In mournful tones, with dismal moans, while tears streamed from his eyes, A melancholy shade explained the cause of his demise.
He said, "I was an Oil Lamp and I still recall the day When folks thought I was bright enough to light the darkest way; But when, at last, I'd finally cast a glamour round myself, They all installed Electric Light and put me on the shelf."
"I was a little Mule Car," another spirit cried, "And, for a time, upon my back the world was glad to ride. For many a day things went my way, but soon I, too, departed; The Trolleys pushed me off the track to perish, broken hearted."
An ancient ghost wept softly as he told his tale of woe. He said, "I was a Mail Coach a century ago; "But conversation taught the nation how to save its breath And now the phones and telegraphs have just talked me to death."
And so, beneath the willow trees, these mournful ghosts reside, All dreaming of the good, old-fashioned days before they died. With plaintive wails they tell their tales of death and dissolution. For every one of them was killed by plain Electrocutation.

PROOF COINS.
They Are Always Struck From New and Specially Prepared Dies.
Proof coins have been struck at the Philadelphia mint for many years, but at no other mint, to be sold to collectors. A premium of about 10 per cent is charged when a lot includes coins of all denominations. For minor proof sets, however, when ordered separately, a little more than double the face value is charged.

The coins are struck from new and specially prepared dies on planchets previously burnished, a hand press instead of the regular steam press being used. When there is a smooth field around the raised portion of a coin the burnishing gives the surface a lasting brilliancy that is very attractive.

Our silver coins still have such a field, but the gold coins, particularly the $5 and $2.50 pieces, and the minor coins no longer present this desirable feature. In fact, outside of the lines being a little finer, proofs of these coins differ little in appearance from pieces struck for regular circulation.

The incused inscriptions on the gold coins do not harmonize with the field as did the old raised inscriptions, while on the minor coins the field is not smooth, and the nickel has really no field, an excess of lettering disfiguring what is not monopolized by the Indian head and the buffalo. The $20 and $10 pieces present artistic designs, but proofs of these coins are far from being as attractive as were those of the old designs.—Pittsburgh Press.

A LEDGE AND A MINE.
How a Learned Lawyer Was Taught to Distinguish Between Them.
Let not distinguished counsel from any eastern or western bar plume themselves upon their fancied superiority to their frontier brethren. The litigation which attends upon rich mineral discoveries often tempts the keenest intellects to the forums of the frontier, and an imported counsel is, in his ignorance of local customs and local nomenclature, liable to make a bad break.

A distinguished New England lawyer who was imported by a Boston capitalist to take charge of a big mining suit delivered himself of a lengthy philippic against a witness who had testified that a mine was in a certain locality and who a year before had testified that it was in another locality a quarter of a mile distant. "Did he lie then, or is he lying now?" said the imported lawyer.

"The learned counsel from afar," answered his opponent, "is an apt illustration of the proverb that a little learning—and in his case such a very little—is a dangerous thing. He confuses a mine with a ledge. The locality of a ledge cannot, of course, be changed, but the locality of a mine, which is the work upon a ledge, may be, as in this case, placed at one point today and in six months may be at another point a quarter of a mile or more away."—Case and Comment.

Newport, Ky., Man Tells of the Great Benefit Tanlac Brought.
Cincinnati, O., Nov. 1.—Joseph Graham, residing at 405 Isabella St., Newport, made an interesting statement Saturday regarding the benefits he had derived from Tanlac, the remarkable new medicine that is now being introduced in Cincinnati. Mr. Graham said:
"I have been all rundown in health for some time past. I was nervous and lacked energy and ambition. My digestion was poor, and whatever I ate often caused a distressing sensation afterward. My stomach was not in proper shape and my system became generally weakened. I recently heard about the success of this Tanlac in Louisville and other cities, and concluded that it was worth trying. I obtained some of the medicine and have used it regularly since. The results have been highly satisfactory. That languid, listless feeling has left me, and I am now stronger and better in every way. My digestion is improved and my sleep is sound."
"Tanlac has produced a general improvement in my condition, and I now feel fine. I heartily recommend and commend it as a medicine of wonderful value."
Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is now sold in Washington C. H., at Blackmer & Tanquary's Drug Store. advt.

The Kaiser's close alliance with the Turk is not to be wondered at while bearing in mind his attitude toward Constantinople for the past quarter of a century. Twenty-five years ago he visited the sultan and exchanged courtesies with the Mohammedan monarch to a degree never before ventured by a European ruler. He was a young man then and a novice in diplomacy, but he either had a long head or the courage of his sentimental convictions—perhaps both.

The reading of the Declaration of Independence in the schools on Columbus day, where it is the practice required by law, will not be overdoing the matter. It is a momentous document, couched in noble language, and the vehicle for grand thoughts. Young and old cannot be too familiar with its message and the history it has made.

COMPROMISE CONCLUDED IN DEPOT CONTROVERSY

Council Accepts Proposals Making Minor Changes, and Will Improve Water Street at Once—Move to Cut Down Expenses By Discharging One or More Firemen Other Business of Importance Transacted Last Night.

A compromise of the Union Station controversy was completed Monday night, when the city council agreed to various conditions for ending the difficulties connected with closing Paint street and building the new station. Also council talked economy but did not use the pruning shears, passed several ordinances and resolutions, borrowed two or three sums of money and transacted other business requiring nearly three hours time.

Attorney John Logan asked that council take action toward paying James Wilt some $684.75 for building the Craig-Penn alley. After some argument and with no one appearing, familiar with the terms of the contract, the solicitor was instructed to prepare a note of indebtedness to issue in payment of the construction cost.

Attorney J. D. Post presented the compromise proposal on the Union Station. The plaintiffs offered to withdraw their action providing the city widen Water street to 60 feet and macadamize it; construct the street across the Allen-Willis properties, pay the court costs and have part of Water street thrown open for traffic before all of Paint street was closed.

The amount to be paid Mr. Burke for the additional strip of ground, some 25 to 30 feet fronting on Water street, was fixed at $1500. Mr. Post urged acceptance of the compromise proposal. He pointed out that work on the station could be resumed within twenty four hours of the time of acceptance.

The proposal seemed at first not to impress council favorably. Solicitor Gregg urged that a bad compromise was better than a good law suit. Rowe said too much was asked of council, and suggested two years be allowed for completing the street across the Allen-Willis lands.

After a 20 minute informal conference at which it was agreed to eliminate the court costs and two years be granted for building the "missing link" across the Allen-Willis lands, council resumed work. Veall moving to read the ordinance for the purchase of the Burke property.

After some argument the various documents relating to acceptance of the compromise, were placed upon their first reading.

The next resolution was for improving Water street, the second authorizing the borrowing of $1500 to pay Mr. Burke.

M. Tracey asked if the proposals removed all obstacles to building the station. He was assured that such was the case.

The various proposals were then taken up and passed under suspension of the rules. Water street to be filled so that the top would be 60 feet wide and the slope of the fill to be on the Burke lands, while the macadam is to be 40 feet wide and 15 inches deep.

An ordinance accepting the grants offered by Allen and Willis was passed.

Paint Street Paving.
An ordinance to proceed with the improvement of Paint street, and authorizing the Service Director to receive bids for paving same, was passed. Howell protested against the ordinance reading "by paving from a point five feet from the center of the D. T. & L. railroad tracks" saying that since the union station was to be erected, change should be made to correspond. Solicitor Gregg held that it made no difference, and the ordinance passed.

Remarkable Situation.

A resolution authorizing the borrowing of $800 to meet a deficiency in the Safety Department, was presented.

Sheets asked Safety Director Dial what the money was for. Mr. Dial said there was no money in the treasury to pay the police and firemen, and that some $1300 would be required to pay them until January 1, 1916.

Sheets asked if it was not known that extra men would increase expenses, and that there were too many firemen and extra police on the pay rolls.

Dial said if council would back him he would dispense with two firemen and the team of horses, that he never felt like assuming the entire responsibility for such action.

Howell stated that he saw no necessity of two men to take care of the fire truck, or two men to take care of one team, and as many extra firemen as ever before. He said that he understood that at a great many fires only three firemen were present.

Veall said that the highest priced fireman was not present to go to fires much of the time.

Howell asked Mayor Coffey if four firemen were needed. He said no, that three men were all that was necessary.

P. Tracey thought the Safety Director should do the hiring and firing and not council.

Dial said that he had received only one-half of the amount asked for expenses of the Safety Department.

Mayor Coffey did not know where part of the money had gone, he said, and further stated that it was like borrowing to pay the $4500 back water rent which was never paid.

The resolution to borrow the $800 was finally passed.

A resolution to levy special assessment for paving East street was passed.

An ordinance to proceed with the improvement of Columbus avenue, was passed.

A resolution to appropriate $157.05 of the library fund, was adopted.

The reports of Mayor Coffey and Auditor McFadden were read and accepted.

The Franchise Committee, which was asked to investigate the application for a franchise for lighting the city, made by local men, was not ready to report.

At this juncture a motion to adjourn was made but ignored.

Sheets called attention to the latest recommendations of H. Whitford Jones, concerning the up-town lights.

Veall moved that council dismiss the highest salaried fireman. P. Tracey immediately objected on the grounds that it was not up to council to take such action.

M. Tracey said that $75 was a pretty stiff salary for a man who was not present when wanted.

Sheets was willing to let one go but objected to specifying which one it should be.

The vote stood: Sheets, No; Rowe, refusing to vote; Howell, yes; P. Tracey, No; Whelpley, no; Veall yes and M. Tracey yes.

Rowe again moved to adjourn, but Sheets interrupted him with the statement that Oakland avenue should be improved, by paving on the west side, and Dayton avenue sidewalk on the east, improved. The

The Fashion-Plate of the Dramatic Stage in
The Soul of Broadway

A Striking Presentation of Modern New York Life.

Valeska Suratt, the most discussed woman of the stage or screen, is, as is known to theatregoers the country over, the fashion plate of the dramatic profession. Her gowns have made millions gasp by their beauty and daring as well as by their dazzling lavishness of design. In making her screen debut in "The Soul of Broadway," the latest of the great William Fox photodramas, Miss Suratt has outdone all her previous efforts in gowns and millinery, fashioned by famous modistes.

In all she wears 150 gowns, some daringly and uniquely simple; others that are calculated to make the feminine portion of her spectators break into astonished exclamations when they see them. It is estimated that in the course of "The Soul of Broadway" Miss Suratt changes her garments with every forty feet of film. Many of them are designed to match the "sets" of "The Soul of Broadway," which latter in themselves are quite unlike anything yet seen in a motion picture, and were especially designed for William Fox by a celebrated artist of the ultra-modern school. Miss Suratt is supported by Wm. E. Shay who recently appeared here in "Sin."

DEVISES PROCEEDS OF FARM TO COUNTY HOME

Late Thomas J. Vesey Gives Snug Sum Annually to His Home Church, and After Death of Wife All Proceeds of Home Farm, Except Annuity to Church Will Go Toward Supporting the Fayette County Children's Home.

The last will and testament of the late Thomas J. Vesey was probated Tuesday and provision is made that after the death of his wife, who is awarded a life estate in the home farm of 104 acres in Paint township all proceeds of the farm except $50 for Paint chapel church, shall forever go to the support of the County Children's Home, the farm to be held in trust by Frank L. Parrett and successors for all time.

The will is dated Sept. 26, 1906, and is witnessed by A. R. Creamer and F. B. Creamer. Frank L. Parrett is made executor.

The home farm of 104 acres is to go to the wife during her lifetime, and she is to pay $25 annually to Paint chapel M. E. church.

The gift is one of the greatest devised to the county since Mr. Jesse Johnson devised a $10,000 children's home buildings, which was the greatest since Peter Carder willed to the county the County Infirmary farm.

PATRONS INSPECT EAST END ADDITION

Patrons of the East End school inspected the new addition Monday night, some 130 persons enjoying the "open house" and entertainment offered.

Dr. W. E. Ireland and Attorney W. B. Rogers were among the speakers, and with the speeches, goodfellowship and refreshments served, the meeting was a most delightful one.

The patrons were delighted with the new addition and the precaution taken to guard the health and lives of the youngsters.

Mrs. Brannon was formerly a well known resident of this city and county and has many relatives and friends here.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

TWO OPERATIONS FOR APPENDICITIS

Alonzo Swift, of western Fayette, was operated upon at the Fayette Hospital, Monday afternoon, for appendicitis. He is resting easy.

Nellie Nickle, of near Jasper, also underwent an operation for appendicitis, Monday, rallied from the shock and is on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Marian Walston, of Clarksburg, who entered the Fayette Hospital Sunday, is doing very nicely.

RUMMAGE AGAIN

Only two more days before the Rummage Sale, Thursday, November 5th, at the new Burke building, and the Welfare Association is needing many and liberal donations between now and then if they are to conduct a successful sale.

They are urging each woman to rummage again and to send all clothing, household articles, dishes, cutlery—anything and everything that can be spared from their own home.

In Social Circles

The meeting of the D. A. R., Monday afternoon at home of Mrs. Nat. Barnett, was a most delightful affair. The interest in the state conference of last week in London and the knowledge that full reports from the large number of delegates aided to bring a full attendance.

Corn in the fodder and golden pumpkins crowned by the flags of our country, greeted the comers from the veranda suggesting both the season and Hallowe'en.

The hostesses assisting Mrs. Barnett were Mesdames Fullerton, Bay, Kinnear, Briggs, Tanzey, Brown, Misses Anna Bell, Lizzie Bell, Briggs Brownell, Pine, Craig.

Masses of chrysanthemums in baskets and pumpkins were beautiful through the rooms; flags together with red, white and blue corn made special call to patriotism.

After the business, the Regent, Mrs. Frank M. Kennedy, announced the reports of the conference, of which she gave the opening program. 1500 Chapters are represented and $4,195 active members in National D. A. R.

In Mrs. Briggs' report of Wednesday, reference was made to the special work of the Old Trail and planting of trees for it and the Lincoln Highway which used to extend from ocean to ocean. Miss Ogle told of the story of Pilgrims, given by Mrs. Geo. Swart of Xenia, in typical costume. The reports especially of work done by mountaineer children of American Revolution, of hand made baskets which are very beautiful and which they sell towards their schooling.

Mrs. Bay gave the story of the Patriotic Songs, and the origin of Yankee Doodle, Hail Columbia, Star Spangled Banner, Columbia the Gem of the Ocean, and America, were full of interest.

Mrs. E. F. Kinnear of Columbus, and Mrs. Kate McDowell from Bloomingburg, were out of town guests.

Following an annual custom much enjoyed by her friends Mrs. George Bryant, of West Court street, gave a rabbit dinner Tuesday noon.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums were used in decoration and the savory rabbit and its accessory dishes thoroughly appreciated.

The guests were Mrs. Wert Backenstoe, Mrs. Tom Collopy, daughter Katharine, Mrs. Tom Murray, son Tom Gardner, Miss Mary Bonham, Miss Nan Gardner.

The M. H. G. class thoroughly enjoyed a social evening at the home of Mrs. Will Klever, with Mrs. Erk Eggleston and Miss Vera Veal assisting hostesses, Monday night.

After the girls had sewed for the Welfare Association a delicious supper was served.

The Men's Class of the First Baptist church celebrated Hallowe'en Monday night with a jolly masquerade at the home of Mr. Clarence Hard.

The house was beautifully decorated and, in the weird candle lighting, the motly costumes of the maskers provided a picturesque scene. A regular feast was served and thirty five men and women revelled in Hallowe'en merry making.

Mr. Wardus Collopy delightfully entertained with a Hallowe'en party at his home east of town Monday night.

The home was gayly enfeited with Hallowe'en decorations, and the popular games of the witch's night and dancing rounded out the merry evening.

An elaborate Hallowe'en supper was served and cider on tap all evening. Miss Ruth Clark and Vernon Beal won in a guessing contest.

Not the least of the evening's broke up fun was the hay ride to and from town with which Mr. Collopy entertained his guests.

The party included:

Misses Helen Bishop Ruth Clark Lydie Vincent, Faye Williams, Miss Butler, Ethel Spray, Bertha Nelson, Pauline Dale, Veral Yahn, Emma Drais, Ruth Waters, Leona Waters, Mabel Kidd, Hazel Chamberlin Floyd Crone, Louise Greener, Ruth Davenport, Alta Garringer, Harlow Corman, Vernon Beal, Maurice Williams Hughey Thompson, Ross Wylie, Frank Collopy, Heber Rowe, Earl Peterson, Ralph Yahn, William Lucas, Ellis Spray, Clark Coffey, Fred Simpson of Milledgeville, Robert Rothrock, Frank Wyatt.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McClure entertained at their beautiful country home, Sunday, a number of their friends with an elegant four course dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Huchison.

The table was prettily decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums. Excellent music was furnished during the afternoon by Mrs. Elmer McClure, Mrs. Hershel Fletcher and Miss Helen McClure. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Huchison; Mr. and Mrs. John Huchison; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Huchison and children; Mr. and Mrs. Homer McCune and children; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McCune and children; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCune and children; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McCune; Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Fletcher and daughter; Mr. Loren Huchison and Letha Rutledge; Miss Mabel Huchison; Miss Louise Weaver; Mr. George Trimmer and Mr. Herman McCune.

In the social calendar of the "500" club no affair has excelled in beauty, elaborateness and distinctive pleasure the first social session of the season, honoring the husbands of the members at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rodecker.

The hostesses were Mesdames Rodecker, Orme Brown, H. C. Hosier and Warren Hicks, and the pronounced success of the party was due to their cleverness and artistic skill.

It was a Hallowe'en party and soft golden light flooded the rooms bringing out the enchantment of the witches' night in the fantastic beauty of the decorations.

At the door, standing in the shadow of a huge shock of fodder, a ghoulis ghost greeted the guests, with gruesome and clammy handshake, and refused to let them enter except by jumping over the witch's broomstock. Once inside the guests exclaimed in delight. The stairway was festooned in Denison cut outs of pumpkins cats, witches; from the wide, connecting openings between the rooms hung these pretty yellow and black figures and held by black cats; beautiful yellow butterflies and black cats that were weird and uncanny were all over the walls and curtains, while in the library a high mantle with unique decoration of yellow and black formed an effective back ground.

The light effects added greatly, the indirect light of the dome in the reception room falling through yellow crepe paper, on which vested myriads of butterflies and yellow shades crowned all the chandeliers.

During the supper hour the entire house was lighted only by pumpkin lanterns and candles, under lovely double yellow shades, upon which perched cats and butterflies.

Each hostess waved a black cat fan as she greeted the guests.

Eight tables of players contested in the game and enjoyed the elegant Hallowe'en lunch served at its close.

Mrs. Howard Engle and Mr. Andra Henkle won the prizes, big and little pumpkin pies.

It was past the midnight hour when the merry party reluctantly broke up.

BATTLE RAGING AT AGUA PRIETA

Villa's Forces Attacking the Carranza Garrison.

BULLETS DROP OVER LINE

American Probably Fatally Wounded When Shots Fired by Villistas Hit United States Custom House in Douglas, Ariz.—Villa and Carranza Commanders Warned by American Army Officers.

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 2.—When a machine gun in the hands of General Villa's forces attacking Agua Prieta was turned upon the American custom house on the border line L. E. Taylor, American, was shot and seriously wounded. The custom house was peppered with bullets and Taylor, who was in the building, was wounded while running to the cover of a nearby railroad embankment. The bullets struck him in the back. Taylor's legs are paralyzed as a result of the wounds. He is a Californian and his mother, Mrs. M. E. Howard, lives in Angeles Camp, Calaveras county, Cal.

The battle opened when the Carranza forces opened fire upon the advancing Villistas. The Villa forces formed a semi-circle about the little city, Villa himself appearing in the east with his cavalry division and marching near the United States line. He talked with American officers and asked them if the United States would help Carranza if he attacked. He was informed that neither side would be given help, but that both must refrain from firing into the United States.

The battle was precipitated by the Carranza forces firing their field pieces at the Villistas just as the Villa army had apparently wheeled into position to give attack. The Villa cannon replied and the artillery of the opposing sides continued to exchange shot for shot. Later the machine guns were brought into action, as the Villista forces pressed in closer.

American observers declared several of the Carranza shells exploded very close to the Villa forces, and clouds of dust rising above Agua Prieta following Villa's artillery firing indicated that buildings in the adobe constructed town were being hit. The Carranza surgeons would not admit that they had more than half a dozen wounded men in their charge, however, asserting that the Villa fire was very poor. The Villista officers nearer the border line declared that they had not sustained any loss among the section of the semi-circular battle line.

Mexicans Warned.

The wounding of the American was the occasion for General Thomas F. Davis, commanding the American forces guarding the line, to send a message by Major M. L. Herzy to General Santa Banaes, chief of staff for Villa, warning him that the fire must be kept away from the American line. General Santa Banaes promised that his men would be more careful in the future.

Prior to this warning shells from the cannon of the Carranza forces defending Agua Prieta had been fired over the American boundary line at the forces of Villa and had passed over the heads of the men of the Eighteenth United States infantry. The border line is in such a position at Agua Prieta that the contending troops must fire over American territory in order to fire straight at each other from given points. The Carranza za soldiers had taken advantage of this situation, but were also warned after the shells had burst on American soil.

Several of the Carranza batteries, following a rapid bombardment by the Villa artillery, failed to reply, giving rise to the belief that they had been disabled. The accuracy of the Villa gunfire is surprising to American army officers, who have heard that Villa is without competent artillerymen or effective ammunition.

Hundreds of Americans have come here from all parts of the west in anticipation of the battle. Hotels are selling their roof space to sightseers at high prices. All the taller buildings are covered with people watching the battle.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Washington, Nov. 2.—The movement for a new cabinet office, to be known as the department of public health, will be revived in the next congress by Senator Owen, who heretofore championed the bill. The proposal was the subject of long and controversial hearings before the committee on national health and quarantine in previous congresses. The medical societies strongly favor it, but Christian scientists and osteopaths have been in an attitude of protest against the proposed legislation, denouncing it as being fathered for selfish reasons by the "medical trust."

SIX-DAY WEEK IS DEMANDED

New York, Nov. 2.—A general strike involving all of the 50,000 waiters in the hotels and restaurants of New York city is being planned. The leaders among the waiters propose to profit by their experience in the unsuccessful attempt to tie up the hotels and restaurants in a general strike a few years ago. The plan is to enlist the active sympathy and co-operation of the musicians, cooks and bartenders in order to make the strike effective.

Max Pitkowski, who, according to his statement has recently been very active in behalf of the waiters of Cleveland, has been chosen to arrange the general strike here. The demands of a general strike will be for a six day-week and a ten hour day.

HERMAN RIDDER ENTERS BEYOND

New York, Nov. 2.—Herman Ridder, sixty-five, former treasurer of the Democratic national committee and publisher of the New York Staats Zeitung here, is dead. The cause of Mr. Ridder's death was kidney trouble in an acute form. He had been ill about ten months and for two weeks his condition had been critical.

Among a large number of prominent German-American citizens of the United States Ridder was one of the most conspicuous figures. His associates in the publishing business had elected him at one time to the presidency of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, and for many years he held high offices in the Associated Press as treasurer and a director.

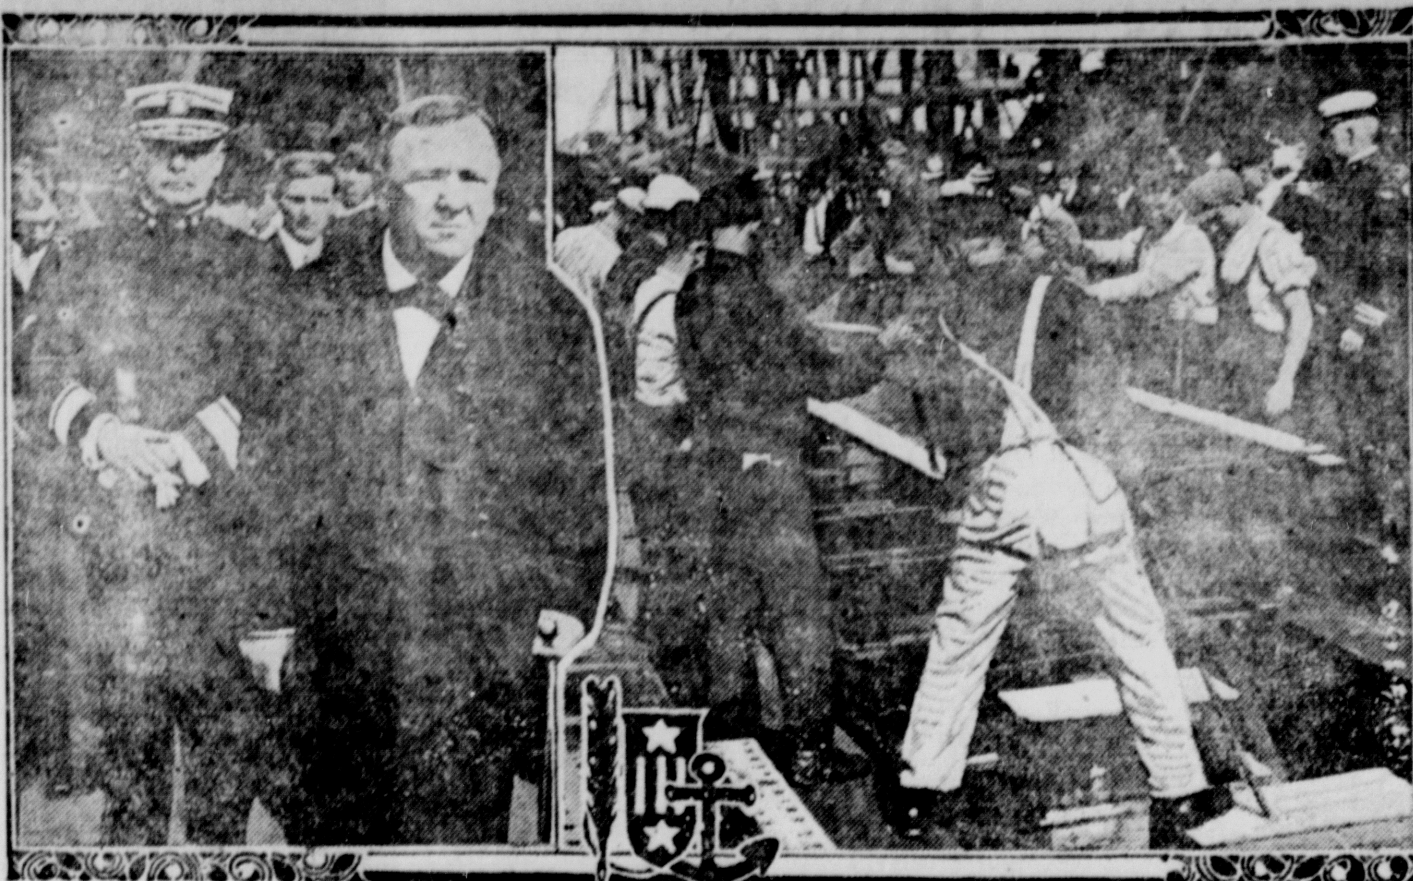

RUSS PRISONERS

Berlin (Via London), Nov. 2.—The captures in the eastern theater of war made by military leaders during the month of October has been as follows: By General Von Hindenburg, 98 officers, 14,482 men and 40 machine guns; by General Leopold, 32 officers, 4,134 men and 2 machine guns; by General Linsingen, 56 officers, 8,871 men and 21 machine guns; by General Boehmer, 3 officers, 1,525 men and 1 machine gun and by General Mackensen, 55 officers, 11,937 men, 23 cannon and 16 machine guns.

THE FATA MORGANA.

Conditions That Must Obtain to Allow of Its Production.

The fata morgana is a singular aerial phenomenon akin to the mirage. It is seen in many parts of the world, but most frequently and in greatest perfection at the strait of Messina, between Sicily and Italy. So many conditions must coincide, however, that even there it is of comparatively rare occurrence.

To allow of its production the sun must be at an angle of forty-five degrees with the water, both sky and sea must be calm and the tidal current sufficiently strong to cause the water in the center to rise higher than on the edges of the strait. When these conditions are fully met the observer on the heights of Calabria, looking toward Messina, will behold a series of rapidly changing pictures, sometimes of most exquisite beauty.

Castles, colonnades, successions of beautiful arches, palaces, cities, with houses and streets and church domes; mountains, forests, grottoes, will appear and vanish, to be succeeded perhaps by fleets of ships, sometimes placidly sailing over the deep, sometimes inverted, while a halo like a rainbow surrounds every image.

It is supposed that the images are due to the irregular refractive powers of the different layers of air above the sea, which magnify, repeat and distort the objects on the Sicilian shore beyond, but to the Italians these singular appearances are the castles of the Princess Morgana, and the view of them is supposed to bring good fortune to the beholder.

A MADAGASCAR BANQUET.

Where the Riot of Food Vied With the Riot of Tumult.

The longest and noisiest dinner that James Sibree, Jr., the author of "A Naturalist in Madagascar," ever attended was given by the governor of a town called Ankarana. About a score of officers were at the table and seven ladies. After a long grace by the pastor, dinner was brought in and consisted of the following courses:

First, curry; second, goose; third, pigeons and waterfowl; fourth, chicken cutlets and poached eggs; fifth, beef sausages; sixth, boiled tongue; seventh, sardines; eighth, pig's trotters; ninth, fried bananas; tenth, pancakes; eleventh, manioc; twelfth, dried bananas, and lastly, says Mr. Sibree, when I thought everything must have been served, came haunches of roast beef.

There was a big drum just outside on the veranda, as well as two small ones, besides clarinets and fiddles, and these were in full play almost all the time. Then the room was filled by a crowd of servants and aids-de-camp, and the shouting of every one, from the governor down, was deafening. The old gentleman directed everything and every one. I was glad when I could take my leave, after two hours' sitting, but I was not to leave quietly. The governor took me by the hand and escorted me home, while the big drum was hammered at ahead of us all the way.—Youth's Companion.

Ever See a Hoop Snake?

Dr. A. Surface, zoologist of the state of Pennsylvania, means to put a final quietus to the tales of hoop snakes. Hoop snakes, he declares, are creatures of the imagination pure and simple. None has ever been seen save in fancy and, he intimates, a disordered fancy at that. To prove that he is right and the accounts of hoop snakes performances all wrong Dr. Surface offers a hundred dollar reward for the production of a reptile of the hoop species. —Philadelphia Record.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Indigestion.

The manifestations of digestive disturbances differ materially. Often enough they are not recognized as such. In fact, in many cases the symptoms show themselves elsewhere than in the digestive organs. It may result in headache, defective sight, heartburn, dizziness or similar ways which continually recur or vary from time to time.

In the earlier stages indigestion may only discover itself as a general feeling of discomfort. The causes are numerous—hasty eating, the indulgence in ill chosen foods,iced drinks, eating when exhausted or some functional disorder of one of the digestive organs.

Care as to the diet, sufficient time for meals, regularity in eating and care about overloading the stomach when tired are things which should be observed by those who would avoid indigestion.

The causes of indigestion are numerous and sometimes so serious that the best medical skill should be called in to determine the source.

CORNS LIFT OUT

Dr. Hunt's New Penetration Method Loosens Them Root and All. FULL SIZE BOX 10c.

No corn ever went so easily, quickly or surely as by Dr. Hunt's new way—the penetration principle of permanently curing corns. Dr. Hunt has devoted a life of study to this one subject. The final result is this entirely different method—a method by which corns GO forever in two short days.

Dr. Hunt's New Corn Cure comes in a simple plaster form. Six plasters in a box. Cut plaster size of corn and apply it. Doesn't "bulk" like clumsy pads. Contains no caustic to smart or cause blood-poisoning. No paring necessary. Wear any shoes. Ease comes the moment you apply this new remedy. You walk in comfort. You forget your feet. In two days corn lifts out.

Nothing like Dr. Hunt's New Corn Cure has been known before. It is an entirely new principle. Millions of packages have already been sold. Cures any corn. They must go. And the price is only ten cents a box. Guaranteed or money back. That's very little to pay for foot comfort. Sold by druggists and shoe dealers everywhere. Cure your corns once and for all, this new way. If any difficulty in securing, send 10 cents in stamps for a box, to American Chemical Company, Sidney, Ohio.

Box containing 20 plasters, twenty-five cents.

STOP THE COLD TODAY!

You can avoid colds all the rest of the winter if you keep NYAL'S LAXACOLD on hand and take as soon as colds attack. This remedy also cures neglected colds and grippe quicker than anything you can take. It stimulates the sluggish liver that is generally at the bottom of cold-taking, so that the natural process of elimination of poisonous waste matter is again established.

FAMILIES SUCCUMB

TENEMENT BLAZE FATAL TO A DOZEN

Victims Suffocated or Burned to Death at Brooklyn.

New York, Nov. 2.—Thirteen persons were suffocated or burned to death early today in a fire that gutted the three-story brick tenement house at 66 North Sixth street, Williamsburg, Brooklyn. One whole family of six, including three children, was wiped out, and three members of another family succumbed. Many others were overcome by the dense and stifling smoke, and still more were cut and bruised in their fight to gain safety. Those living on the first floor jumped from their windows to the street and several were hurt. While two alarms were sent in and firemen were fighting the flames the work of rescue went on. Ambulances were summoned from four hospitals. It is feared that more dead bodies are in the ruins. The bodies of six adults and four children were among the first recovered. These were found clad in night clothes in bedrooms and in hallways. The position of several of the dead indicated that an attempt had been made to reach places of safety when overcome by the smoke.

Why Bowser Exaggerates

Mrs. Bowser Demands to Know.

By M. QUAD.
Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Mr. Bowser."
Mr. Bowser had read the evening paper and finished his cigar and was nodding in sleep when the voice of Mrs. Bowser, as above, reached his drowsy ear and gave him a jump. "What is it he growled?" as he opened his eyes and scrambled around. "I want to talk with you."
"Well, go ahead. You needn't scare a man half to death because you want to talk with him. I was dreaming that Dr. Cook and I were searching for the west pole out in Oregon."
Mrs. Bowser looked at him for a minute, and then began:
"Mr. Bowser, I want to know why you exaggerate the way you do. It is getting to be something shameful, and it has got to stop."
"What do you mean, woman?" he exclaimed as he suddenly roused up. "I will tell you what I mean, sir. One evening about six weeks ago our minister and his wife called. During the conversation he mentioned that a friend of his passed through the fire in the north woods of Canada two or three years ago. He said that his friend saw two black bears with their fur alive. You remember, don't you?"
"Yes, I remember."
"And you at once turned around and said that while you and a companion were out in the Rocky mountains hunting a forest fire took place at night. You knew nothing about it until the text was burning over your heads. The other man had already suffocated, but you rolled out of the flames and ran seven miles. Then you stopped to draw a long breath, and you found that your eyebrows had been singed off, your ears blistered, your hair turned to a brick color and the soles of your shoes burned through in seven different places. You had just started to run another seven miles, when a huge grizzly bear approached you and laid down upon the ground that you might mount to his back. You did so, and he carried you to safety and licked your burned ears before he passed from sight. You told that story Mr. Bowser, didn't you?"

"HE CARRIED YOU TO SAFETY."

"I did," he calmly replied.
"I was looking at our callers as you related it, and their faces told me that they believed it all a monstrous lie."
"Well, I can't help that."
"It was one evening about four weeks ago that Mr. Bascomb and his wife called. He and you got to talking about the war and he said that during the civil war he captured nine of the enemy with only a club in his hand, and was made an officer for so doing. He told that didn't he, Mr. Bowser?"

"I should say he did!"
"And then you had to have your inning. You related that during the Boer war you were commander of a British man of war. At daylight one morning as you were cruising around you saw a Boer warship three or four miles away. She also saw you and endeavored to escape, but you put on steam and overhauled her. She ran up the white flag of surrender, but you paid no attention to it and opened fire with your 100 great guns. She went to the bottom in five minutes carrying with her her crew of 7,000 men. Not one of the poor fellows escaped. You were made Admiral Bowser for your great gallantry. Mr. Bowser, you related that story off as if you were telling about digging a woodchuck out of his hole."
"Yes, it was easy work," he half yawned.
"But do you think that either one of them believed one single word of the story? In fact, you had only begun it when I saw Bascomb wink at his wife. He kept up the winking all through it, and three or four times she had to make great efforts to choke back her giggles and her titters."
"But why did he wink and she want to giggle?" asked Mr. Bowser.
"I'll tell you why. Both of them knew that you were not in the Boer war; that the Boers had no warships; that no man-of-war ever carried a crew of above a thousand men. Mr. Bowser, your story contained three of the most whopping lies I ever heard."
"Oh, I don't know about that."
"One evening about two weeks ago," said Mrs. Bowser after looking at him in astonishment, "our neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Green, came in for a game of cards. We were just ready to sit down at the table when Mr. Green mentioned the fact that he had just met that day the man who had saved his life some thirty years ago. As a boy Mr. Green had gone out to skate on a small lake. He had been skating about three-quarters of an hour when a large wolf came out of the forest and began to pursue him. The pursuit had lasted nearly an hour, and the boy was about to fall from exhaustion when the man spoken of came along with his dog and the wolf was frightened away. Mr. Bowser, did you tell a story to match Mr. Green?"
"Most certainly," he answered.
"Yes, you did. And Mr. Green began laughing as soon as you started in. He seemed to understand that there was a whopper coming, and he was right. You said that when you were a boy fifteen years old and your parents lived near a river in Florida you went out one night with your skates to have a little spin. Wolves were plenty in that location, but you did not think that any wolf would be so daring as to attack young Samuel Bowser. You didn't even take a crowbar with you as a weapon of defense. When you made the statement Mrs. Green was looking on the floor for a lost hairpin. You may have thought she had lost one, but I knew better. She wanted to get her face out of sight so that she could laugh."
"But why did she want to laugh?" asked Mr. Bowser.
"Mrs. Bowser's only direct reply to this was a look of contempt, and then she went on:
"You had only gone half a mile on you skates when you heard the howl of a wolf. Did it scare you? Not much. Young Samuel Bowser was not a kid to get scared over the howl of one wolf. You simply continued to cut pigeon wings and curlicues. Presently there came the howl of a second wolf. No attention was paid to it. The howl was heard by your mother at home, but she only greeted it with smiles. She didn't know much about wolves, but she did know her son Sammy from head to heels. At this critical point, Mr. Bowser, you must have noticed that Mr. Green went to the front door to see if it was raining.

He was gone about five minutes and must have had five hearty laughs during that time. His face was still twitching as he came in.
"I don't see why he wanted to laugh," remarked Mr. Bowser.
"Maybe not. There came a howl of a third, fourth and fifth wolf, but you only smiled in disdain. Your mother heard them, too, but she did not even stop her knitting. As you moved slowly up the river whistling as you went, there came more howls until you finally estimated the number of wolves at fifteen. Then, of a sudden a pack of the fierce and hungry brutes dashed out upon the ice and with foam decked jaws and clashing fangs rushed upon you. Was Samuel Bowser there to be pulled down and made wolf meat of? No, you weren't there, were you, Mr. Bowser?"
"I don't remember that I was," he replied.
"No. You were scooting up the river, not for your life, but to amuse yourself with the savage brutes. You let them come so near the foam flew on your contrails, but at no time were you in danger."
"It is said that a wolf can tire out a horse, but when they got hold of young Samuel Bowser they lost their job. After he had drawn them fifty miles up the river they began to wheeze and pant and tire out. Then three or four of the pack turned back to look for an easier chicken roost, and those who continued on lost their speed and spirit. How far did you lead those wolves up river, Mr. Bowser?"
"Never mind that," was the reply.
"I think you said 150 miles. It was then coming daylight, and you wanted to have some fun with those wolves. You circled around them. You pulled their ears. You grabbed them by the tail and swung them about. You gave them an occasional kick. You drove them before you to the starting point of the night before, and there you booted them into the woods, where they fell down exhausted. Your mother had not been alarmed over your absence, but she had come down to the bank of the river to see if any muskrats were playing around. She held out her arms to you and called you her gallant boy. You might have continued that wolf story for another hour, but the Greens rose up and said they must go home on account of the baby, and they went. I heard them laughing all the way home."
"I will see Green tomorrow and ask him what they were laughing about," said Mr. Bowser.

FAYETTE NOT THE WORST CHOLERA STRICKEN COUNTY

Situation Improving Here While Growing Worse Among Some Neighboring Counties, Is the Claim of Local Veterinarian, Who is in Touch With Situation.

Dr. Neil B. Jones, well known veterinarian of this city, and who is well informed on the hog cholera outbreak in this part of Ohio is authority for the statement that less hog cholera exists in Fayette county at the present time than in some of the adjoining counties.

Dr. Jones says that a great injustice has been done to Fayette county by a statement issued some two or three weeks ago by State Veterinarian Dr. A. S. Cooley, which was interpreted to mean that the hog cholera epidemic centered in Fayette, and that it was far worse here than elsewhere.

Dr. Jones stated that there was more cholera in Franklin county than in Fayette; more in Highland—almost twice as much, in fact, more in Madison county and more in Ross county, while in other adjoining counties the situation was equally as bad as it is in Fayette.

The cholera situation in Fayette is improving right along, Dr. Jones states, a thing which is good news to Fayette countians in general.

HEAVY VOTE IS POLLED IN ALL PRECINCTS

One of the heaviest votes ever recorded in an "off" year is being polled throughout Fayette county today and some say the vote will set a new record.

Heavy voting began early and continued brisk throughout the day, the affair passing off with much activity on the part of the wet and dry workers and the various candidates.

The rural vote is reported unusually heavy, and at 2:15 in this city First Ward A had polled 190 votes out of the 250 in the precinct; 4th ward A had 161 out of a total of 237 and 2nd ward A had 215 votes out of a total of 300.

As the vote on the amendments and referendum vote will be counted first in most precincts, the result for mayor is expected to come in slowly.

EARLY VOTE IS UNPRECEDENTED

Magnitude of Vote Cast in Ohio Today Surprisingly Heavy—Returns on Prohibition Will be Slow Owing to Local Contests—Suffrage Up in Ten States, While Few Vote For Governor.

By Associated Press.

Chief interest, in elections being held in ten states today, appeared to center in the proposition for granting suffrage to women, submitted to the voters of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Voters of Massachusetts, Maryland and Kentucky are also balloting for governor and other state officers, while state-wide prohibition is the feature of the Ohio election and other state or local issues are before the people in New Jersey, Mississippi, Michigan and Virginia.

Generally fair weather prevailed throughout New York state, and a heavy early vote was reported.

The woman suffrage question appeared to be the chief issue. Women watchers were at every polling place in New York City.

By Associated Press.

Columbus, November 2.—Interest in local contests in most cities today threatened to delay returns on the prohibition and stability amendments and other general proposals until early hours of tomorrow.

Officials of the secretary of state's department expressed the opinion that the results of the vote on state-wide questions would not be known definitely until well into tomorrow.

Board of elections in many counties sent word informally that they had decided to disregard the secretary of state's suggestion that they cause ballots on prohibition and other general questions to be counted first, owing to the intense immediate interest in mayorality and other local contests.

Sunny skies and moderate temperature over the entire state brought out an unprecedented number of early voters this morning, according to reports reaching political headquarters here.

Officials of the Anti-Saloon League reported indications were that one third of the total vote in cities and villages had been recorded before 8:30.

Cincinnati reports were that a number of deputy sheriffs had been sworn in there to prevent irregularities at the polls, at the request of prohibition workers. Similar action was taken at Cleveland and several other cities.

FULL VOTE OUT IN CINCINNATI

By Associated Press.

Cincinnati, November 2.—About 60 per cent of the vote here was in by 11 o'clock today.

Both wet and dry workers were conspicuous at almost every precinct. Owing to the unusual interest in the prohibition contest, political observers predicted that approximately a full vote would be cast.

FIRST CANVASS OF VOTE IS IN

Boston, November 2.—Returns from Acushnet, the first received from today's election in Massachusetts, gave for governor: McCall, Republican, 110; Walsh, Democrat, 48.

The vote on the suffrage amendment stood: for, 44; against, 109.

CLEVELAND VOTE HEAVY

By Associated Press.

Cleveland, November 2.—At noon fifty per cent of the registered vote had been cast here.

The result on mayor and other city issues will be much delayed because state issues here will be counted first.

ORPHANAGE IS DESTROYED

By Associated Press.

Harrisburg, Pa., November 2.—Sylvan Heights Orphanage was destroyed by fire today, but its 103 children, who were attending mass in the chapel when the flames were discovered, were marched to safety.

SEVERAL WOUNDED ON AMERICAN SIDE

By Associated Press.

Douglas, Arizona, November 2.—General Villa's army, reinforced by troops from Naco, early today renewed the attack against the Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta. The losses on both sides are believed to be considerable.

About 1 o'clock Villa started a general attack with artillery, and the Carranza garrison replied with machine guns, rifles and the explosion of mines along the front over which they expected the Villa charge.

After more than an hour's engagement the firing ceased.

Bullets reaching the American side of the boundary had wounded five persons, according to reports available early today.

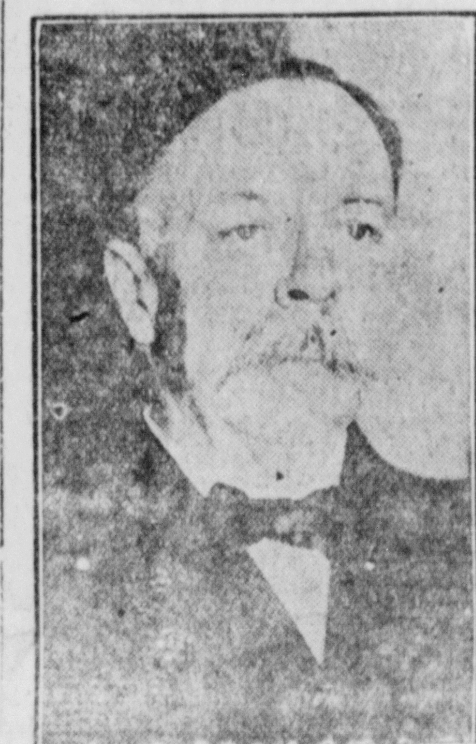

INFIRMARY BURNS TODAY

Lebanon, O., November 2.—The Warren County Infirmary here burned today, entailing a loss of $50,000. The 150 inmates were rescued. Cigarette wires in the attic is believed to have caused the blaze.

17 INJURED IN EXPLOSION

Wilmington, Del., November 2.—Seventeen men were badly injured by a heavy explosion of a large quantity of powder at No. 1 plant of the Dupont Powder Works, at Carney's Point, N. J.

ROUMANIA SOON TO JOIN ALLIES

New Classes of Roumanians Called to Colors — Austria Claims Italian Offensive Has Collapsed — Greece is Favoring Allies — Premier Asquith Says Financial Situation Serious in England, but is Sure of Success — Tells Former Secrets.

By Associated Press.

London, November 2.—News coming by way of Paris lends support to the growing impression that Roumania is preparing to intervene in the war on the side of the entente allies.

New classes of Roumanian recruits are being mobilized.

Vienna reports that a "grave situation" may arise between Austria and Roumania in connection with the proposed use of the lower Danube to transport Russian troops to Bulgaria.

London, November 2.—In his address before the House of Commons this afternoon, Premier Asquith states that Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British forces on the Franco-Belgian front, was now in command of nearly 1,000,000 men.

Mr. Asquith said the total casualties in France and Flanders amounted to 377,000.

He asserted the Germans had not made a net gain of a foot of ground since April.

The premier asserted that the financial situation of Great Britain was serious, and that the nation must be prepared to make far greater sacrifices than it has yet done to enable it to sustain the burden imposed by the war.

He said there was full agreement between Great Britain and France to maintain the independence of Serbia and not let her "become the prey of the sinister and nefarious combination of Germany, Austria and Bulgaria."

Reviewing the work of British submarines in the Turkish campaign he said that in the Sea of Marmora they had sunk or damaged two battleships, five gunboats, one torpedo boat, eight transports and 197 supply ships.

Mr. Asquith asserted he was as confident as ever that the allies were to carry the righteous power to a triumphant issue, and he was not going to shift the burden from his shoulders until satisfied he was unable to bear it.

He would not surrender the task

as long as he enjoyed health and the confidence of the king and the country.

He made the announcement that former Premier Venizelos of Greece whose advocacy of intervention in the war on the side of the entente allies led to his resignation, asked France and Great Britain on September 21 for 150,000 men, with the express understanding that Greece would mobilize.

The premier also said he strongly believed the recruiting plan of the Earl of Derby would succeed, and that compulsion would be unnecessary.

London, November 1.—The great Italian offensive launched a fortnight ago has broken down, the Austrian War Office declares in a statement today, after the loss of 150,000 men by the attacking forces.

British and French transports, with troops on board, have appeared off Kavala, Greece, a Berlin newspaper announces, apparently presaging the landing of new allied forces for operations in the Balkans.

Athens dispatches declare the attitude of Greece toward the entente allies is becoming more favorable.

Berlin, November 1.—Cacak, an important junction point in Serbia, about 30 miles to the southwest of Kraguevatz, has been occupied by the Teutonic forces engaged in the Serbian invasion, it was officially announced today.

13 DIE IN FIRE

By Associated Press.

New York, November 1.—Thirteen persons, of whom six were men, three women and three children, lost their lives in a fire which destroyed a tenement house in Brooklyn early today. All were Poles.

WILLARD TO DEFEND BELT

By Associated Press.

New Orleans, November 2.—Jess Willard, world's champion heavyweight, and his manager said today that they had agreed with Dominick Tortorich and Tommy Burns, local fight promoters, to sign a contract for Willard to defend his title in a twenty-round bout in this city the first week in March.

It was stated Willard's opponent could be either Frank Moran, Fred Fulton or Jim Coffey.

Election Returns

Tonight on The Herald Screen

There is wide-spread interest in the result of the election today. Washington and Fayette county people are interested in the result of the balloting on the state-wide proposals, and also in the result of the local election.

The Herald, through its unequalled news-gathering facilities, will be able to give the result of the balloting the instant results are known.

The big canvass was placed in position today, and every bulletin will be displayed for the information of the public.

KEEN INTEREST IN STATE ELECTIONS

Balloting Proceeding Today In Several States.

SUFFRAGE THE BIG ISSUE

Voters of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts Passing Upon the Question While the Leaders of Both Sides Remain Confident. Elections Also Being Held in Kentucky and Maryland.

New York, Nov. 2.—Elections are being held today in several states, including New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Woman suffrage is the main issue in these three commonwealths.

Kentucky is electing state officials today. Among five candidates for governor the principal struggle has been between former Congressman A. O. Stanley, Democrat of Henderson, and Edwin P. Morrow, Republican, of Somerset. All state officers, one-half of the state senate and all members of the lower house of the general assembly will be chosen.

The legislature to be chosen at today's election in Maryland will be asked to pass upon a statewide prohibition bill. The Anti-Saloon league believes that the vigorous campaign for temperance, just closed, will obtain enough votes to insure the enactment of the measure. Woman suffrage was also an issue, although not aggressively pushed, and the next legislature will be asked to submit the question to the voters.

In New York a revised constitution, drawn by a convention with Elihu Root as its president at Albany last summer, also is being voted on, and three congressmen, a full assembly, eleven supreme court justices and some county and city officials are to be elected, but all these questions are running poor seconds in interest to equal suffrage. More than 6,000 women are working as watchers at the polls today.

Leaders of both sides expressed optimism regarding the result of the election. The estimates of the suffragist leaders are more conservative than those of the anti-suffragists. Tammany claims to be strictly neutral in the suffrage fight.

In Massachusetts leaders of both sides are awaiting the outcome with serenity. The suffragists declined to give figures on the victory which they expect. The opposition claims a majority of 100,000 against the amendment. A vicious campaign has been waged by the suffragists.

Much interest has been aroused throughout Pennsylvania in the vote on the women's suffrage amendment to the state constitution at today's election. The suffragists have conducted a spectacular campaign, including a tour of every one of the sixty-seven counties, with a replica of the Liberty Bell. A keenly contested majority campaign has been waged in Philadelphia.

Heavy Vote in Ohio.

Columbus, Nov. 2.—Reports received here up to noon indicate that a heavy vote is being polled today throughout the state, the fight for and against the proposed prohibition amendment attracting thousands to the polls. The early vote cast in Cincinnati, Cleveland and other large cities was exceptionally heavy. Reports from rural districts also indicate a large vote.

HUNGRY CREW

New York, Nov. 2.—The American liner New York, in from Liverpool, bore down on the three-masted American schooner Frederic A. Duggan, lying in the trough of a rough sea, sails furled and flying signals asking for food. Captain Roberts went near enough and learned that the Duggan had been seventy-five days out from Queenstown with a cargo of china clay for Philadelphia and had gotten only 500 miles from the Irish coast. She was then about 600 miles west of Queenstown. Captain Hansen said he and his crew had nothing to eat in four days. Six volunteers, with Chief Officer Turner, manned a lifeboat and took 100 pounds of beef and a barrel of flour to the schooner. The Duggan's skipper said he would head for a British port for repairs and supplies.

WILL RETURN LARGE SUMS

Columbus, Nov. 2.—At a meeting of the Ohio exposition commission it was pointed out to the governor that nearly $10,000 has been saved by the commission in salary appropriation alone, half of maintenance fund, and that over $15,000 of the $25,000 special exhibit fund will be returned to the state treasury, in all $35,000. In addition to this it is believed that more than $10,000 will be realized from the sale of furniture of the Ohio building.

Commissioner Charles Allen reported that the Ohio display of poultry is ready and a carload of everything in the poultry line from pigeons to peacocks will go forward Saturday. Ohio will be the only eastern state represented at the poultry exhibit.

Clothing, household goods, dishes, cooking utensils, in fact every thing finds a ready sale, so don't neglect to send a donation however small to the Welfare Association rummage sale. 25616

GERMANS CAPTURE ARSENAL

Occupy Kragujevac and Capture Enemy's Positions.

FRENCH REPULSE BULGARS

Attempts of Latter to Throw Allied Troops Out of Their Northern Positions On the Vardar Prove Futile. Outer Forts of Nish Reported Under Bombardment—French Retake Kutchani Pass.

London, Nov. 2.—Berlin officially announces the capture by German troops of Kragujevac, the great Serbian arsenal. West of Kragujevac the Germans, after taking Milaonac, are pressing south and announce the capture of the heights south of the town and Trivunovo mountain. In the capture of the heights several hundred Serbians were taken prisoners.

The outer forts of Nish are now under bombardment by the Bulgarian artillery advancing from Kniazevats and Plovis.

The Bulgarians attempted to throw the French troops out of their northernmost positions based on Krivolak on the Vardar river, twelve miles south of Istip. At the Bulgarian approach French advanced detachments scouting in the direction of Kuprili, withdrew to Krivolak, and here a division of French troops awaited the attack. Three attempts were made by the Bulgars to carry the position by storm, but the French artillery on the flanks caught them in a cross fire while the infantry poured in a heavy rifle fire from the front. The Bulgars hesitated under the fire, and the French, taking advantage of the momentary halt, leaped from the trenches and drove the Bulgarians into the Vardar. Recent rains have added to the depth and current of the river and many of the Bulgars were drowned.

A dispatch from Salonica to Paris says that the French have retaken the Kutchani pass and have driven the Bulgarians out of the district surrounding Kuprili, the town and railroad still remaining in the hands of the Bulgars.

An Athens dispatch states that the British expeditionary force has had its first engagement near Strumitza. Official news of the operations is still lacking, but its present position would indicate that the allies intend making a strong counter movement against Bulgaria from the southwest, with Strumitza as their first goal. No further news has been received of the Russian force estimated at 200,000 men, which is supposed to be trying to effect a landing on the Bulgarian Black sea coast.

OHIO NEWSLETS

Telegraphers Reject Compromise. Cincinnati, Nov. 2.—The offer of a 2½ per cent increase, made by General Manager H. A. Worcester of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company, was rejected by a committee representing the telegraphers of the railroad.

Elevator and Mills Burn.

Osborne, O., Nov. 2.—The Tranchant-Finnell flour mills and grain elevator were destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of about $50,000. The plant of the Ohio Whip company, across the street from the flour mill, also was burned, with an estimated loss of $6,000.

Gun Accidentally Discharged.

Middletown, O., Nov. 2.—George H. Hervey, secretary and general manager of a large paper company here, was probably fatally shot while hunting near here. Together with his brother, Thomas Hervey, and George Neibel, he was hunting rabbits, when Neibel's gun was accidentally discharged, the shot lodging in Hervey's head.

Prisoner Flees When Officers Fight. Urbana, O., Nov. 2.—While Marshal Harnish and Night Watchman Kelta engaged in a fight at West Liberty the latter's prisoner escaped. The two have not been friends. Keith had arrested Oscar McLain, who was wanted for assault, and took him to jail. Marshal Harnish arrived and insisted upon searching the prisoner. Keith protested and the fight was on.

Land Owner Shot.

Lima, O., Nov. 2.—John Hauenstein, wealthy property owner, was found in his office shot through the head. He has a chance for recovery. Police are investigating the case on the theory that the shooting was an attempt at murder, and search is being made for two convicts recently received at the Lima state hospital from the Ohio penitentiary who escaped from the hospital.

Work of Gunmen.

Akron, O., Nov. 2.—Two gunmen shot down four persons, one woman and three men, wounding two fatally. The shooting took place in the home of Mrs. Clara Frolo. Both gunmen escaped in the darkness. Victims of the gunmen are: Mrs. Clara Frolo, Nicholas Frolo, John Vatalaro and Albert Avellino. Nicholas Frolo and Vatalaro are fatally wounded. Police are searching for Francisco and Dominick Desetissi, brothers, who, it is charged, are the assailants.

HERE'S NEW VIGOR FOR OVERWORKED STOMACHS

Brown's Drug Store, the popular druggists, have been in the drug business long enough to have their own opinions of the best way of selling medicines. They say the plan adopted by Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia remedy, is the fairest they have ever heard of. They don't believe that a medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. And Mi-o-na is sold under a positive guarantee to relieve dyspepsia or to refund the money. You simply leave 50 cents on deposit with Brown's Drug Store and if, after you have used the box of Mi-o-na you decide that it has done you no good, all you have to do is to tell them so and they will return your money.

Hundreds of people have been relieved of stomach agonies by using this remarkable remedy. It is not simply a food digester; it is a medicine that puts all of the digestive organs into normal condition and gives ruddy, glowing, vigorous health. A change for the better will be seen after the first few doses of Mi-o-na, and its continued use will soon give the power to eat anything at any time and not suffer distress afterward. Use Mi-o-na and see how much more there is in life. advt.

VESSEL SEIZED

QUESTION OWNERSHIP OF AMERICAN BOAT

British to Take Hocking Before the Prize Court.

Washington, Nov. 2.—That the British government intends to challenge the neutrality and ownership of the American steamer Hocking, which has been seized by British cruisers and taken before the British admiralty court at Halifax, N. S., seems to be assured. Reports that the vessel was being brought to Halifax in charge of a prize crew was received at the state department from Consul General Young at Halifax. The Hocking was formerly a Danish vessel and was one of ten vessels given American register this summer after its purchase by the American Transatlantic Steamship company, a firm incorporated in Delaware.

At the time of transfer the department of commerce asked the state department if there were any objections to the granting of registration. The inquiry was made because the officials had reason to believe that the transaction was open to challenge, the charge being made in certain quarters that the ten ships were originally German, that the transfer to Danish registry was merely a blind and that beneficiary interests remained with German capitalists. The state department held, however, that the vessels might later be required to prove actual neutral character and the validity of transfer of registry.

That such action should be taken against the vessels of the company was surmised here after England announced that she had abrogated the rule of the declaration of London, which provides that the enemy or neutral character of a vessel is determined by the character of the flag she is entitled to fly.

The state department expects that owners of the Hocking will shortly protest against her seizure. It is probable that the state department will then call on Great Britain for release of the ship.

PROSPERITY IS FILLING LAND CLAIM BANKERS

Washington, Nov. 2.—A swelling tide of prosperity is sweeping over the country, in the opinion of the reserve agents for the twelve federal reserve banks. This highly optimistic viewpoint was expressed in the report on business conditions received by the federal reserve boards from agents and made public here. Business in the past month has shown a buoyancy sufficient to overcome the dark "spots" which had been commented on in early reports, with the result that all sections abound in confidence. Perhaps the most encouraging feature of the reports is the note taken in many of them of the recent invigoration of domestic business as differentiated from that affected by war orders which many persons have until now regarded as the uncertain foundation of the apparent prosperity which had come upon the country.

ELECTION RETURNS Read from the Stage.

Serbia's Sorry Plight

Serbia is being crushed between the ponderous war machines of the Austro-Germans and the Bulgarians. The steady advance of the great Teuton army is kept up across Serbian soil with comparatively little of opposition to check it, while in the rear the Bulgars are strong enough to cut off any chance for the brave little Serbian army to escape from annihilation or surrender.

Little Serbia is putting every ounce of strength and blood into the heroic struggle to retard the advantage of the Teutons until relief comes from her allies. Russia is straining every nerve to rush relief to the beleaguered Serbs and England and France are doing everything in their power to extend a helping hand to the little Balkan state now so sorely pressed.

The mad race for the road through to Turkey and the Dardanelles continues with unabated fury and upon whether the right of way is finally secured by the Teutons or the entente allies, depends the life of Turkey as a nation in Europe and the fate of the campaign for the opening of the narrow straits which separate Europe from Asia.

Thus far the campaign has brought success to the armies of the Kaiser and Frances Joseph and disaster to the Serbian forces reinforced by a handful of English, French and Russians.

The superb German military machine is writing again the story of success that was written in Belgium, in France and in Poland.

The single point of great difference is that in the former drives there was a measure of excuse for the failure of the allies while in the present there seems to be little or no reasonable explanation for the neglect to provide for the contingency which if its happening could not have been prevented could certainly have been guarded against.

That the entente allies have blundered in the Balkan situation is admitted by all military experts and that the Teutons have been quick to profit by that blunder is too well established to be strengthened by acknowledgment.

The Pre-Election Statements

With the close of the polls this evening the people are through, for a time at least, of hearing and reading the patriotic utterances and unselfish proffers of service by the numerous candidates for office who are willing to sacrifice all personal aims to be chosen public servants.

This is a day and age of political advertisements. The candidates and their supporters have learned that the people no longer "flock" to partisan meetings, convinced before hand, only to have their prejudices and preferences appealed to and praised. This is a day when people demand facts and refuse absolutely to allow anyone to do all their thinking for them.

Consequently the candidates for office and the supporters of this, that and the other proposal have hit upon the plan of sending "facts" for the consumption of the voters through all the avenues which carry facts to the voters. Naturally the avenue of information in greatest favor is the press and for days before the election the newspapers are literally jammed with statements, platforms and promises.

Second only to the newspapers as a fact carrying agency comes the circular letter and mail combination. What the voters fail to receive either through the columns of the newspapers or the circular letters is only that which the resourceful imagination of the campaign managers fail to suggest.

Laws enacted for the purpose of restricting this volume of advertising and fixing responsibility for its circulation have resulted in bringing about just exactly the reverse result.

If a stranger from a strange land would just happen to drop into any municipality in the United States on the eve of election and read the political announcements he could not fail to be impressed with the high class of men who offered to enter the public service.

Well this is a great land and we never do things half heartedly, even the candidates pre-election statements in bidding for votes, are all that could be expected as the production of a vivid American imagination.

Influence of Environment More Potent Than That of Heredity

By Dr. J. GARDNER SMITH, Expert in Eugenics

YOU can shake your fist at your ancestral skeleton in the closet, no matter if he's drunkard, thief or murderer. You haven't inherited his crime nor the obligation to follow in his footsteps. HEREDITY IS A FACTOR IN OUR LIVES, BUT I BELIEVE THAT ENVIRONMENT AND PERSONAL DETERMINATION COUNT FOR A GREAT DEAL MORE.

It isn't what a child inherits from his parents; it's the example they set him, the surroundings they give him, the methods they use in training him, that determine his criminality or the reverse.

Parents are subjecting a child to unnecessary moral risks when they fail to give him a sound, strong body and to inspire him with a fondness for work. As for the value of work—well, you know who is famed for supplying idle hands with mischief.

Poetry For Today

DIRGE OF USED-TO-BE.

In the dark and gloomy graveyard of the Things-That-Used-to-Be, A group of ghosts were gathered 'neath a weeping willow tree. In mournful tones, with dismal moans, while tears streamed from his eyes, A melancholy shade explained the cause of his demise.

He said, "I was an Oil Lamp and I still recall the day When folks thought I was bright enough to light the darkest way; But when, at last, I'd finally cast a glamour round myself, They all installed Electric Light and put me on the shelf."

"I was a little Mule Car," another spirit cried, "And, for a time, upon my back the world was glad to ride. For many a day things went my way, but soon I, too, departed; The Trolleys pushed me off the track to perish, broken hearted."

An ancient ghost wept softly as he told his tale of woe. He said, "I was a Mail Coach a century ago; 'But conversation taught the nation how to save its breath And now the phones and telegraphs have just talked me to death."

And so, beneath the willow trees, these mournful ghosts reside, All dreaming of the good, old-fashioned days before they died. With plaintive wails they tell their tales of death and dissolution. For every one of them was killed by plain Electrocution.

PROOF COINS.

They Are Always Struck From New and Specially Prepared Dies.

Proof coins have been struck at the Philadelphia mint for many years, but at no other mint, to be sold to collectors. A premium of about 10 per cent is charged when a lot includes coins of all denominations. For minor proof sets, however, when ordered separately, a little more than double the face value is charged.

The coins are struck from new and specially prepared dies on planchets previously burnished, a hand press instead of the regular steam press being used. When there is a smooth field around the raised portion of a coin the burnishing gives the surface a lasting brilliancy that is very attractive.

Our silver coins still have such a field, but the gold coins, particularly the $5 and $2.50 pieces, and the minor coins no longer present this desirable feature. In fact, outside of the lines being a little finer, proofs of these coins differ little in appearance from pieces struck for regular circulation.

The incused inscriptions on the gold coins do not harmonize with the field as did the old raised inscriptions, while on the minor coins the field is not smooth, and the nickel has really no field, an excess of lettering disfiguring what is not monopolized by the Indian head and the buffalo. The $20 and $10 pieces present artistic designs, but proofs of these coins are far from being as attractive as were those of the old designs. —Pittsburgh Press.

A LEDGE AND A MINE.

How a Learned Lawyer Was Taught to Distinguish Between Them.

Let not distinguished counsel from any eastern or western bar plume themselves upon their fancied superiority to their frontier brethren. The litigation which attends upon rich mineral discoveries often tempts the keenest intellects to the forums of the frontier, and an imported counsel is, in his ignorance of local customs and local nomenclature, liable to make a bad break.

A distinguished New England lawyer who was imported by a Boston capitalist to take charge of a big mining suit delivered himself of a lengthy philippic against a witness who had testified that a mine was in a certain locality and who a year before had testified that it was in another locality a quarter of a mile distant. "Did he lie then, or is he lying now?" said the imported lawyer.

"The learned counsel from afar," answered his opponent, "is an apt illustration of the proverb that a little learning—and in his case such a very little—is a dangerous thing. He confuses a mine with a ledge. The locality of a ledge cannot, of course, be changed, but the locality of a mine, which is the work upon a ledge, may be, as in this case, placed at one point today and in six months may be at another point a quarter of a mile or more away."—Case and Comment.

A Fine Viewpoint.

Sherman, Wyo., so named in honor of General W. T. Sherman, is the highest point on the Laramie range reached by the Union Pacific railroad. It is claimed that from this point on a clear day may be seen Pikes peak, about 165 miles to the south, Longs peak, sixty miles to the south, and Elk mountain, 100 miles to the west. From many points in the vicinity of Buford good views may be obtained of the high peaks of the Rocky mountains far away to the south and of the relative low but rugged Sherman mountains, a part of the Laramie range, to the right. Two prominent points seen to the north are called Twin mountains and are celebrated as one of the strong holds of the notorious desperado Slade. Slade during his checkered career fought both for and against law and order, and his career is set forth in Mark Twain's "Roughing It."—Geological Survey Bulletin.

Newport, Ky., Man Tells of the Great Benefit Tanlac Brought.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 1.—Joseph Graham, residing at 405 Isabella St., Newport, made an interesting statement Saturday regarding the benefits he had derived from Tanlac, the remarkable new medicine that is now being introduced in Cincinnati. Mr. Graham said:

"I have been all rundown in health for some time past. I was nervous and lacked energy and ambition.

"My digestion was poor, and whatever I ate often caused a distressing sensation afterward. My stomach was not in proper shape and my system became generally weakened.

"I recently heard about the success of this Tanlac in Louisville and other cities, and concluded that it was worth trying. I obtained some of the medicine and have used it regularly since. The results have been highly satisfactory. That languid, listless feeling has left me, and I am now stronger and better in every way. My digestion is improved and my sleep is sound.

"Tanlac has produced a general improvement in my condition, and I now feel fine. I heartily recommend and commend it as a medicine of wonderful value.

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is now sold in Washington C. H., at Blackmer & Tanquary's Drug Store. advt.

The Kaiser's close alliance with the Turk is not to be wondered at while bearing in mind his attitude toward Constantinople for the past quarter of a century. Twenty-five years ago he visited the sultan and exchanged courtesies with the Mohammedan monarch to a degree never before ventured by a European ruler. He was a young man then and a novice in diplomacy, but he either had a long head or the courage of his sentimental convictions—perhaps both.

COMPROMISE CONCLUDED IN DEPOT CONTROVERSY

Council Accepts Proposals Making Minor Changes, and Will Improve Water Street at Once—Move to Cut Down Expenses By Discharging One or More Firemen Other Business of Importance Transacted Last Night.

A compromise of the Union Station controversy was completed Monday night, when the city council agreed to various conditions for ending the difficulties connected with closing Paint street and building the new station. Also council talked economy but did not use the pruning shears, passed several ordinances and resolutions, borrowed two or three sums of money and transacted other business requiring nearly three hours time.

Attorney John Logan asked that council take action toward paying James Wilt some $684.75 for building the Craig-Penn. alley. After some argument and with no one appearing familiar with the terms of the contract, the solicitor was instructed to prepare a note of indebtedness to issue in payment of the construction cost.

Attorney J. D. Post presented the compromise proposal on the Union Station. The plaintiffs offered to withdraw their action providing the city widen Water street to 60 feet and macadamize it; construct the street across the Allen-Willis properties, pay the court costs and have part of Water street thrown open for traffic before all of Paint street was closed.

The amount to be paid Mr. Burke for the additional strip of ground, some 25 to 30 feet fronting on Water street, was fixed at $1500. Mr. Post urged acceptance of the compromise proposal. He pointed out that work on the station could be resumed within twenty four hours of the time of acceptance.

The proposal seemed at first not to impress council favorably. Solicitor Gregg urged that a bad compromise was better than a good law suit. Rowe said too much was asked of council, and suggested two years be allowed for completing the street across the Allen-Willis lands.

After a 20 minute informal conference at which it was agreed to eliminate the court costs and two years be granted for building the "missing link" across the Allen-Willis lands, council resumed work, Veail moving to read the ordinance for the purchase of the Burke property.

After some argument the various documents relating to acceptance of the compromise, were placed upon their first reading.

The next resolution was for improving Water street, the second authorizing the borrowing of $1500 to pay Mr. Burke.

M. Tracey asked if the proposals removed all obstacles to building the station. He was assured that such was the case.

The various proposals were then taken up and passed under suspension of the rules, Water street to be filled so that the top would be 60 feet wide and the slope of the fill to be on the Burke lands, while the macadam is to be 40 feet wide and 15 inches deep.

An ordinance accepting the grants offered by Allen and Willis was passed.

Paint Street Paving.
An ordinance to proceed with the improvement of Paint street, and authorizing the Service Director to receive bids for paving same, was passed. Howell protested against the ordinance reading "by paving from a point five feet from the center of the D. T. & I. railroad tracks" saying that since the union station was to be erected, change should be made to correspond. Solicitor Gregg held that it made no difference, and the ordinance passed.

Remarkable Situation.

A resolution authorizing the borrowing of $800 to meet a deficiency in the Safety Department, was presented.

Sheets asked Safety Director Dial what the money was for. Mr. Dial said there was no money in the treasury to pay the police and firemen, and that some $1300 would be required to pay them until January 1, 1916.

Sheets asked if it was not known that extra men would increase expenses, and that there were too many firemen and extra police on the pay rolls.

Dial said if council would back him he would dispense with two firemen and the team of horses, that he never felt like assuming the entire responsibility for such action.

Howell stated that he saw no necessity of two men to take care of the fire truck, or two men to take care of one team, and as many extra firemen as ever before. He said that he understood that at a great many fires only three firemen were present.

Veail said that the highest priced fireman was not present to go to fires much of the time.

Howell asked Mayor Coffey if four firemen were needed. He said no, that three men were all that was necessary.

P. Tracey thought the Safety Director should do the hiring and firing and not council.

Dial said that he had received only one-half of the amount asked for expenses of the Safety Department.

Mayor Coffey did not know where part of the money had gone, he said, and further stated that it was like borrowing to pay the $4500 back water rent which was never paid.

The resolution to borrow the $800 was finally passed.

A resolution to levy special assessment for paving East street was passed.

An ordinance to proceed with the improvement of Columbus avenue, was passed.

A resolution to appropriate $157.95 of the library fund, was adopted.

The reports of Mayor Coffey and Auditor McFadden were read and accepted.

The Franchise Committee, which was asked to investigate the application for a franchise for lighting the city, made by local men, was not ready to report.

At this juncture a motion to adjourn was made but ignored.

Sheets called attention to the latest recommendations of H. Whitford Jones, concerning the up-town lights.

Veail moved that council dismiss the highest salaried fireman. P. Tracey immediately objected on the grounds that it was not up to council to take such action.

M. Tracey said that $75 was a pretty stiff salary for a man who was not present when wanted.

Sheets was willing to let one go but objected to specifying which one it should be.

The vote stood: Sheets, No; Rowe, refusing to vote; Howell, yes; P. Tracey, No; Whelpley, no; Veail yes and M. Tracey yes.

Rowe again moved to adjourn, but Sheets interrupted him with the statement that Oakland avenue should be improved, by paving on the west side, and Dayton avenue sidewalk on the east, improved. The

Wm. Fox Presents VALESKA SURATT

The Fashion-Plate of the Dramatic Stage in

The Soul of Broadway

A Striking Presentation of Modern New York Life.

Valeska Suratt, the most discussed woman of the stage or screen, is, as is known to theatregoers the country over, the fashion plate of the dramatic profession. Her gowns have made millions gasp by their beauty and daring as well as by their dazzling lavishness of design. In making her screen debut in "The Soul of Broadway," the latest of the great William Fox photodramas, Miss Suratt has outdone all her previous efforts in gowns and millinery, fashioned by famous modistes.

In all she wears 150 gowns, some daringly and uniquely simple; others that are calculated to make the feminine portion of her spectators break into astonished exclamations when they see them. It is estimated that in the course of "The Soul of Broadway" Miss Suratt changes her garments with every forty feet of film. Many of them are designed to match the "sets" of "The Soul of Broadway," which latter in themselves are quite unlike anything yet seen in a motion picture, and were especially designed for William Fox by a celebrated artist of the ultra-modern school. Miss Suratt is supported by Wm. E. Shay who recently appeared here in "Sin."

DEVISES PROCEEDS OF FARM TO COUNTY HOME

Late Thomas J. Vesey Gives Snug Sum Annually to His Home Church, and After Death of Wife All Proceeds of Home Farm, Except Annuity to Church Will Go Toward Supporting the Fayette County Children's Home.

The last will and testament of the late Thomas J. Vesey was probated Tuesday and provision is made that after the death of his wife, who is awarded a life estate in the home farm of 104 acres in Paint township all proceeds of the farm except $50 for Paint chapel church, shall forever go to the support of the County Children's Home, the farm to be held in trust by Frank L. Parrett and successors for all time.

The will is dated Sept. 26, 1906, and is witnessed by A. R. Creamer and F. B. Creamer. Frank L. Parrett is made executor.

The home farm of 104 acres is to go to the wife during her lifetime, and she is to pay $25 annually to Paint chapel M. E. church.

The gift is one of the greatest devised to the county since Mr. Jesse Johnson devised a $10,000 children's home buildings, which was the greatest since Peter Carder willed to the county the County Infirmary farm.

PATRONS INSPECT EAST END ADDITION

Patrons of the East End school inspected the new addition Monday night, some 130 persons enjoying the "open house" and entertainment offered.

Dr. W. E. Ireland and Attorney W. B. Rogers were among the speakers, and with the speeches, goodfellowship and refreshments served, the meeting was a most delightful one.

The patrons were delighted with the new addition and the precaution taken to guard the health and lives of the youngsters.

engineer was instructed to obtain the necessary data for the improvement and the solicitor draw up the resolutions. A sewer emptying on the right-of-way of the Pennsylvania railroad was referred to the service committee for investigation. The third motion to adjourn was made, and adjournment was taken until two weeks from Monday night.

REMAINS WILL REACH HERE TODAY

The remains of Mrs. Oscar Brannon, who died in Ashville, N. C., Monday noon, will arrive in this city on the 5:50 B. & O. train this evening and will be transferred to the home of her brother, Mr. Sherman Reeder, on East Temple street.

Mrs. Brannon was formerly a well known resident of this city and county and has many relatives and friends here.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

TWO OPERATIONS FOR APPENDICITIS

Alonso Swift, of western Fayette, was operated upon at the Fayette Hospital, Monday afternoon, for appendicitis. He is resting easy.

Nellie Nickle, of near Jasper, also underwent an operation for appendicitis, Monday, rallied from the shock and is on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Marian Walston, of Clarksburg, who entered the Fayette Hospital Sunday, is doing very nicely.

RUMMAGE AGAIN

Only two more days before the Rummage Sale, Thursday, November 5th, at the new Burke building, and the Welfare Association is needing many and liberal donations between now and then if they are to conduct a successful sale.

They are urging each woman to rummage again and to send all clothing, household articles, dishes, cutlery—anything and everything that can be spared from their own home.

Soup, Soup, Soup!

The young people of the Presbyterian church will hold a soup sale in the church basement beginning at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, November 6 and continuing all day. Three kinds of soup—Bean, Noodle and Vegetable. Ten cents served at the church, with crackers or sandwiches; 15c per quart if taken home.

In Social Circles

The meeting of the D. A. R., Monday afternoon at home of Mrs. Nat. Barnett, was a most delightful affair. The interest in the state conference of last week in London and the knowledge that full reports from the large number of delegates aided to bring a full attendance.

Corn in the fodder and golden pumpkins crowned by the flags of our country, greeted the comers from the veranda suggesting both the season and Hallowe'en.

The hostesses assisting Mrs. Barnett were Mesdames Fullerton, Bay, Kinnear, Briggs, Tanzey, Brown, Misses Anna Bell, Lizzie Bell, Briggs Brownell, Pine, Craig.

Masses of chrysanthemums in baskets and pumpkins were beautiful through the rooms; flags together with red, white and blue corn made special call to patriotism.

After the business, the Regent, Mrs. Frank M. Kennedy, announced the reports of the conference, of which she gave the opening program. 1500 Chapters are represented and 84,195 active members in National D. A. R.

In Mrs. Briggs' report of Wednesday, reference was made to the special work of the Old Trail and planting of trees for it and the Lincoln Highway which used to extend from ocean to ocean. Miss Ogle told of the story of Pilgrims, given by Mrs. Geo. Swart of Xenia, in typical costume. The reports especially of work done by mountaineer children of American Revolution, of hand made baskets which are very beautiful and which they sell towards their schooling.

Mrs. Bay gave the story of the Patriotic Songs, and the origin of Yankee Doodle, Hail Columbia, Star Spangled Banner, Columbia the Gem of the Ocean, and America, were full of interest.

Mrs. E. F. Kinnear of Columbus, and Mrs. Kate McDowell from Bloomingburg, were out of town guests.

Following an annual custom much enjoyed by her friends Mrs. George Bryant, of West Court street, gave a rabbit dinner Tuesday noon.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums were used in decoration and the savory rabbit and its accessory dishes thoroughly appreciated.

The guests were Mrs. Wert Backenstoe, Mrs. Tom Collopy, daughter Katharine, Mrs. Tom Murray, son Tom Gardner, Miss Mary Bonham, Miss Nan Gardner.

The M. H. G. class thoroughly enjoyed a social evening at the home of Mrs. Will Klever, with Mrs. Erk Eggleston and Miss Vera Veal assisting hostesses, Monday night.

After the girls had sewed for the Welfare Association a delicious supper was served.

The Men's Class of the First Baptist church celebrated Hallowe'en Monday night with a jolly masquerade at the home of Mr. Clarence Hard.

The house was beautifully decorated and, in the weird candle lighting, the motly costumes of the maskers provided a picturesque scene. A regular feast was served and thirty five men and women revelled in Hallowe'en merry making.

Mr. Wardus Collopy delightfully entertained with a Hallowe'en party at his home east of town Monday night.

The home was gayly enfeited with Hallowe'en decorations, and the popular games of the witch's night and dancing rounded out the merry evening.

An elaborate Hallowe'en supper was served and cider on tap all evening. Miss Ruth Clark and Vernon Beal won in a guessing contest.

Not the least of the evening's fun was the hay ride to and from town with which Mr. Collopy entertained his guests.

The party included:

Misses Helen Bishop Ruth Clark Lydie Vincent, Faye Williams, Miss Butler, Ethel Spray, Bertha Nelson, Pauline Dale, Veral Yahn, Emma Drais, Ruth Waters, Leona Waters, Mabel Kidd, Hazel Chamberlin Floyd Crone, Louise Greener, Ruth Davenport, Alta Garringer, Harlow Corman, Vernon Beal, Maurice Williams Hughey Thompson, Ross Wylie, Frank Collopy, Heber Rowe, Earl Peterson, Ralph Yahn, William Lucas, Ellis Spray, Clark Coffey, Fred Simpson of Milledgeville, Robert Rothrock, Frank Wyatt.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McClure entertained at their beautiful country home, Sunday, a number of their friends with an elegant four course dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Huchison.

The table was prettily decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums. Excellent music was furnished during the afternoon by Mrs. Elmer McClure, Mrs. Hershel Fletcher and Miss Helen McClure. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Huchison; Mr. and Mrs. John Huchison; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Huchison and children; Mr. and Mrs. Homer McCune and children; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McCune and children; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCune and children; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McCune; Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Fletcher and daughter; Mr. Loren Huchison and Letha Rutledge; Miss Mabel Huchison; Miss Louise Weaver; Mr. George Trimmer and Mr. Herman McCune.

In the social calendar of the "500" club no affair has excelled in beauty, elaborateness and distinctive pleasure the first social session of the season, honoring the husbands of the members at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rodecker.

The hostesses were Mesdames Rodecker, Orme Brown, H. C. Hosier and Warren Hicks, and the pronounced success of the party was due to their cleverness and artistic skill.

It was a Hallowe'en party and soft golden light flooded the rooms bringing out the enchantment of the witches' night in the fantastic beauty of the decorations.

At the door, standing in the shadow of a huge shock of fodder, a ghoulis ghost greeted the guests, with gruesome and clammy handshake, and refused to let them enter except by jumping over the witch's broomstock. Once inside the guests exclaimed in delight. The stairway was festooned in Denison cut outs of pumpkins cats, witches; from the wide, connecting openings between the rooms hung these pretty yellow and black figures and held by black cats; beautiful yellow butterflies and black cats that were weird and uncanny were all over the walls and curtains, while in the library a high mantle with unique decoration of yellow and black formed an effective back ground.

The light effects added greatly, the indirect light of the dome in the reception room falling through yellow crepe paper, on which vested myriads of butterflies and yellow shades crowned all the chandeliers.

During the supper hour the entire house was lighted only by pumpkin lanterns and candles, under lovely double yellow shades, upon which perched cats and butterflies.

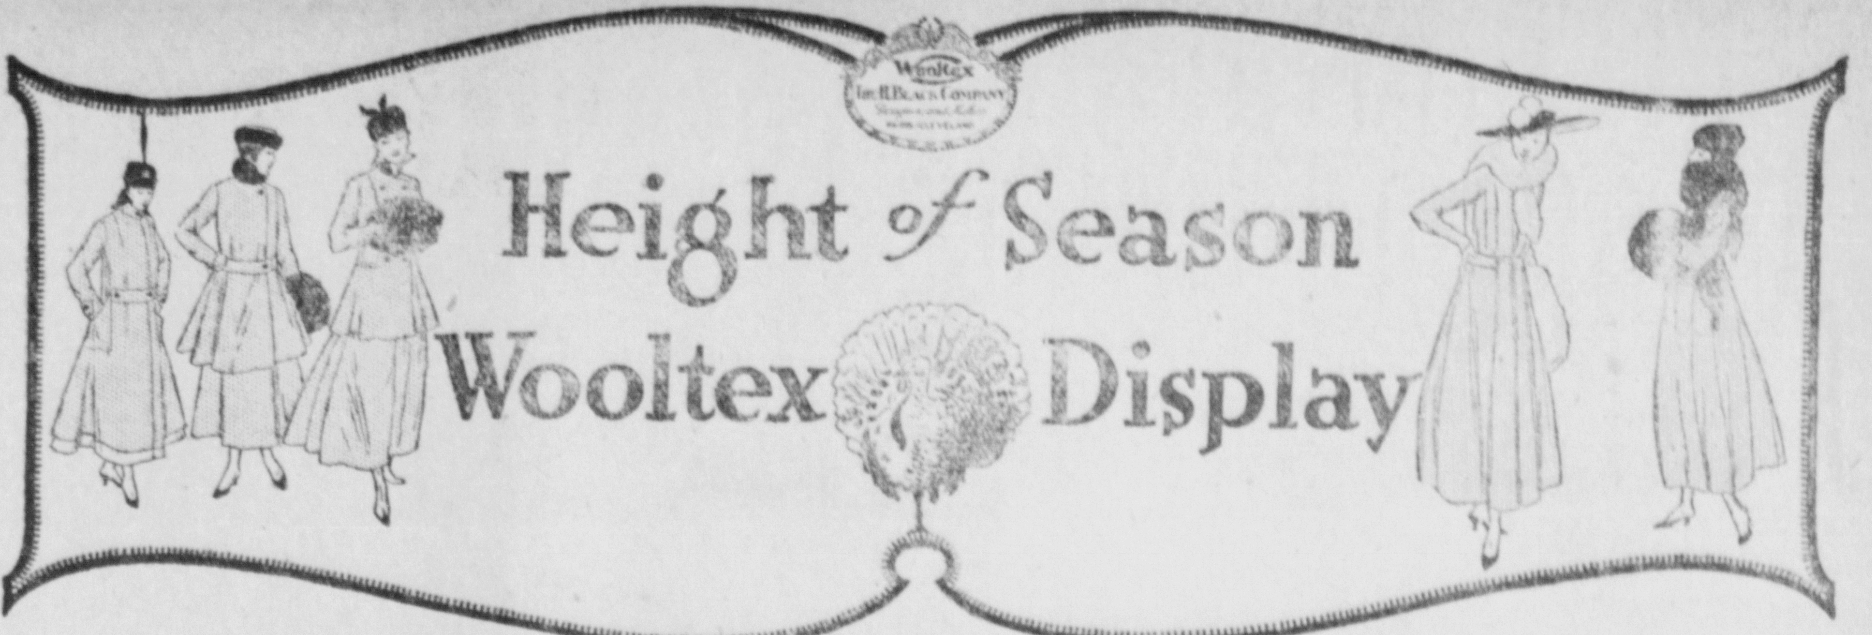

Each hostess waved a black cat fan as she greeted the guests.

Eight tables of players contested in the game and enjoyed the elegant Hallowe'en lunch served at its close.

Mrs. Howard Engle and Mr. Anda Henkle won the prizes, big and little pumpkin pies.

It was past the midnight hour when the merry party reluctantly broke up.

BATTLE RAGING AT AGUA PRIETA

Villa's Forces Attacking the Carranza Garrison.

BULLETS DROP OVER LINE

American Probably Fatally Wounded When Shots Fired by Villistas Hit United States Custom House in Douglas, Ariz.—Villa and Carranza Commanders Warned by American Army Officers.

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 2.—When a machine gun in the hands of General Villa's forces attacking Agua Prieta was turned upon the American custom house on the border line L. E. Taylor, American, was shot and seriously wounded. The custom house was peppered with bullets and Taylor, who was in the building, was wounded while running to the cover of a nearby railroad embankment. The bullets struck him in the back. Taylor's legs are paralyzed as a result of the wounds. He is a Californian and his mother, Mrs. M. E. Howard, lives in Angeles Camp, Calaveras county, Cal.

The battle opened when the Carranza forces opened fire upon the advancing Villistas. The Villa forces formed a semi-circle about the little city, Villa himself appearing in the east with his cavalry division and marching near the United States line. He talked with American officers and asked them if the United States would help Carranza if he attacked. He was informed that neither side would be given help, but that both must refrain from firing into the United States.

The battle was precipitated by the Carranza forces firing their field pieces at the Villistas just as the Villa army had apparently wheeled into position to give attack. The Villa cannon replied and the artillery of the opposing sides continued to exchange shot for shot. Later the machine guns were brought into action, as the Villista forces pressed in closer.

American observers declared several of the Carranza shells exploded very close to the Villa forces, and clouds of dust rising above Agua Prieta following Villa's artillery firing indicated that buildings in the adobe constructed town were being hit. The Carranza surgeons would not admit that they had more than half a dozen wounded men in their charge, however, asserting that the Villa fire was very poor. The Villista officers nearer the border line declared that they had not sustained any loss among the section of the semi-circular battle line.

Mexicans Warned.

The wounding of the American was the occasion for General Thomas F. Davis, commanding the American forces guarding the line, to send a message by Major M. L. Herzy to General Santa Banez, chief of staff for Villa, warning him that the fire must be kept away from the American line. General Santa Banez promised that his men would be more careful in the future.

Prior to this warning shells from the cannon of the Carranza forces defending Agua Prieta had been fired over the American boundary line at the forces of Villa and had passed over the heads of the men of the Eighteenth United States infantry. The border line is in such a position at Agua Prieta that the contending troops must fire straight at each other from given points. The Carranza soldiers had taken advantage of this situation, but were also warned after the shells had burst on American soil.

Several of the Carranza batteries, following a rapid bombardment by the Villa artillery, failed to reply, giving rise to the belief that they had been disabled. The accuracy of the Villa gunfire is surprising to American army officers, who have heard that Villa is without competent artillerymen or effective ammunition.

Hundreds of Americans have come here from all parts of the west in anticipation of the battle. Hotels are selling their roof space to sightseers at high prices. All the taller buildings are covered with people watching the battle.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The movement for a new cabinet office, to be known as the department of public health, will be revived in the next congress by Senator Owen, who heretofore championed the bill. The proposal was the subject of long and controversial hearings before the committee on national health and quarantine in previous congresses. The medical societies strongly favor it, but Christian scientists and osteopaths have been in an attitude of protest against the proposed legislation, denominating it as being fathered for selfish reasons by the "medical trust."

SIX-DAY WEEK IS DEMANDED

New York, Nov. 2.—A general strike involving all of the 50,000 waiters in the hotels and restaurants of New York city is being planned. The leaders among the waiters propose to profit by their experience in the unsuccessful attempt to tie up the hotels and restaurants in a general strike a few years ago. The plan is to enlist the active sympathy and co-operation of the musicians, cooks and bartenders in order to make the strike effective.

Max Pitkowski, who, according to his statement has recently been very active in behalf of the waiters of Cleveland, has been chosen to arrange the general strike here. The demands of a general strike will be for a six day week and a ten hour day.

HERMAN RIDDER ENTERS BEYOND

New York, Nov. 2.—Herman Ridder, sixty-five, former treasurer of the Democratic national committee and publisher of the New York Staats Zeitung here, is dead. The cause of Mr. Ridder's death was kidney trouble in an acute form. He had been ill about ten months and for two weeks his condition had been critical.

Among a large number of prominent German-American citizens of the United States Ridder was one of the most conspicuous figures. His associates in the publishing business had elected him at one time to the presidency of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, and for many years he held high offices in the Associated Press as treasurer and a director.

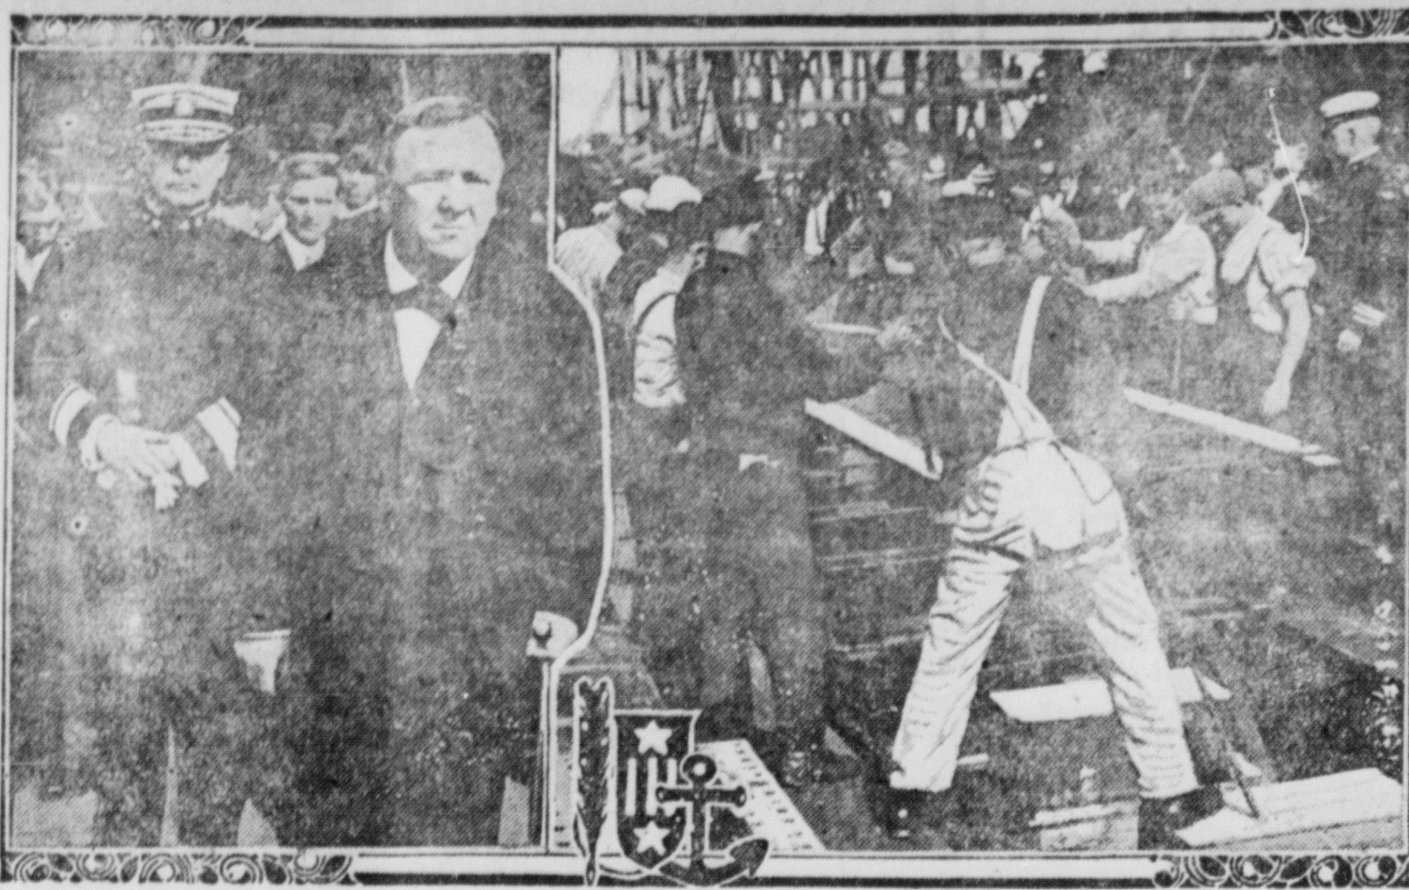

RUSS PRISONERS

Berlin (Via London), Nov. 2.—The captures in the eastern theater of war made by military leaders during the month of October has been as follows: By General Von Hindenburg, 98 officers, 14,482 men and 40 machine guns; by General Leopold, 32 officers, 4,134 men and 2 machine guns; by General Linsingen, 56 officers, 8,871 men and 21 machine guns; by General Boehmer, 3 officers, 1,325 men and 1 machine gun and by General Mackensen, 55 officers, 11,937 men, 23 cannon and 16 machine guns.

THE FATA MORGANA.

Conditions That Must Obtain to Allow of Its Production.

The fata morgana is a singular aerial phenomenon akin to the mirage. It is seen in many parts of the world, but most frequently and in greatest perfection at the strait of Messina, between Sicily and Italy. So many conditions must coincide, however, that even there it is of comparatively rare occurrence.

To allow of its production the sun must be at an angle of forty-five degrees with the water, both sky and sea must be calm and the tidal current sufficiently strong to cause the water in the center to rise higher than on the edges of the strait. When these conditions are fully met the observer on the heights of Calabria, looking toward Messina, will behold a series of rapidly changing pictures, sometimes of most exquisite beauty.

Castles, colonnades, successions of beautiful arches, palaces, cities, with houses and streets and church domes; mountains, forests, grottoes, will appear and vanish, to be succeeded perhaps by fleets of ships, sometimes placidly sailing over the deep, sometimes inverted, while a halo like a rainbow surrounds every image.

It is supposed that the images are due to the irregular refractive powers of the different layers of air above the sea, which magnify, repeat and distort the objects on the Sicilian shore beyond, but to the Italians these singular appearances are the castles of the Princess Morgana, and the view of them is supposed to bring good fortune to the beholder.

A MADAGASCAR BANQUET.

Where the Riot of Food Vied With the Riot of Tumult.

The longest and noisiest dinner that James Sibree, Jr., the author of "A Naturalist in Madagascar," ever attended was given by the governor of a town called Ankarana. About a score of officers were at the table and seven ladies. After a long grace by the pastor, dinner was brought in and consisted of the following courses:

First, curry; second, goose; third, pigeons and waterfowl; fourth, chicken cutlets and poached eggs; fifth, beef sausages; sixth, boiled tongue; seventh, sardines; eighth, pig's trotters; ninth, fried bananas; tenth, pancakes; eleventh, manioc; twelfth, dried bananas, and lastly, says Mr. Sibree, when I thought everything must have been served, came bunches of roast beef.

There was a big drum just outside on the veranda, as well as two small ones, besides clarinets and fiddles, and these were in full play almost all the time. Then the room was filled by a crowd of servants and aids-de-camp, and the shouting of every one, from the governor down, was deafening. The old gentleman directed everything and every one. I was glad when I could take my leave, after two hours' sitting, but I was not to leave quietly. The governor took me by the hand and escorted me home, while the big drum was hammered at ahead of us all the way.—Youth's Companion.

Ever See a Hoop Snake?

Dr. A. Surface, zoologist of the state of Pennsylvania, means to put a final quietus to the tales of hoop snakes. Hoop snakes, he declares, are creatures of the imagination pure and simple. None has ever been seen save in fancy and, he intimates, a disordered fancy at that. To prove that he is right and the accounts of hoop snakes performances all wrong Dr. Surface offers a hundred dollar reward for the production of a reptile of the hoop species.—Philadelphia Record.

The puzzled legislator facing Miss Suffrage and Miss Anti will feel with Gay's bean in the "Beggars' Opera":

How happy I could be with either
Were I other dear charmer away!
But, while ye thus tease me together,
To neither a word will I say.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Indigestion.

The manifestations of digestive disturbances differ materially. Often enough they are not recognized as such. In fact, in many cases the symptoms show themselves elsewhere than in the digestive organs. It may result in headache, defective sight, heartburn, dizziness or similar ways which continually recur or vary from time to time.

In the earlier stages indigestion may only discover itself as a general feeling of discomfort. The causes are numerous—hasty eating, the indulgence in ill chosen foods, iced drinks, eating when exhausted or some functional disorder of one of the digestive organs.

Care as to the diet, sufficient time for meals, regularity in eating and care about overloading the stomach when tired are things which should be observed by those who would avoid indigestion.

The causes of indigestion are numerous and sometimes so serious that the best medical skill should be called in to determine the source.

CORNS LIFT OUT

Dr. Hunt's New Penetration Method Loosens Them Root and All. FULL SIZE BOX 10c.

No corn ever went so easily, quickly or surely as by Dr. Hunt's new way—the penetration principle of permanently curing corns. Dr. Hunt has devoted a life of study to this one subject. The final result is this entirely different method—a method by which corns GO forever in two short days.

Dr. Hunt's New Corn Cure comes in a simple plaster form. Six plasters in a box. Cut plaster size of corn and apply it. Doesn't "bulk" like clumsy pads. Contains no caustic to smart or cause blood-poisoning. No paring necessary. Wear any shoes. Ease comes the moment you apply this new remedy. You walk in comfort. You forget your feet. In two days corn lifts out.

Nothing like Dr. Hunt's New Corn Cure has been known before. It is an entirely new principle. Millions of packages have already been sold. Cures any corn. They must go.

And the price is only ten cents a box. Guaranteed or money back. That's very little to pay for foot comfort. Sold by druggists and shoe dealers everywhere. Care your corns once and for all, this new way. If any difficulty in securing, send 10 cents in stamps for a box, to American Chemical Company, Sidney, Ohio.

Box containing 20 plasters, twenty-five cents.

STOP THE COLD TODAY!

You can avoid colds all the rest of the winter if you keep on hand and take as soon as colds attack. This remedy also cures neglected colds and grippe quicker than anything you can take. It stimulates the sluggish liver that is generally at the bottom of cold-taking, so that the natural process of elimination of poisonous waste matter is again established.

NYAL'S LAXACOLD

CLIPPER SHIP HERE, STIRS UP RECOLLECTIONS.

For the first time in years the royal yards of a clipper ship, the four masted ship Fort Jackson, are towering over New York city's water front. When she sailed into New York from Buenos Aires folks rubbed their eyes to gaze upon this reminder of half a century ago when the clipper ship was seen in every port on earth.

WIRE FLASHES

A Russian sable coat, which cost $25,000 and contains 130 perfect sable pelts, has been sent from New York to Washington to the wife of a diplomatic representative to this country. John O'Boyle, New York bellboy, cleared $11,000 in war stock deal.

Edward L. Pretorius, publisher of the St. Louis Times, shot and killed himself in the bathroom of his home at St. Louis.

Richard Brandt, foreman of the beam room of a wool pulling establishment at Columbus, fell into a vat filled with brine for hide pickling purposes and was drowned.

H. C. Geyer, sixty, a traveling salesman of Cincinnati, was killed instantly when his automobile overturned at Meyer Hill.

TENEMENT BLAZE FATAL TO A DOZEN

Victims Suffocated or Burned to Death at Brooklyn.

New York, Nov. 2.—Thirteen persons were suffocated or burned to death early today in a fire that gutted the three-story brick tenement house at 66 North Sixth street, Williamsburg, Brooklyn. One whole family of six, including three children, was wiped out, and three members of another family succumbed.

Many others were overcome by the dense and stifling smoke, and still more were cut and bruised in their fight to gain safety. Those living on the first floor jumped from their windows to the street and several were hurt.

While two alarms were sent in and firemen were fighting the flames the work of rescue went on. Ambulances were summoned from four hospitals. It is feared that more dead bodies are in the ruins.

The bodies of six adults and four children were among the first recovered. These were found clad in night clothes in bedrooms and in hallways. The position of several of the dead indicated that an attempt had been made to reach places of safety when overcome by the smoke.

"Mr. Bowser,"

Mr. Bowser had read the evening paper and finished his cigar and was nodding in sleep when the voice of Mrs. Bowser, as above, reached his drowsy ear and gave him a jump.

"What is it he growled?" as he opened his eyes and scrambled around.

"I want to talk with you."

"Well, go ahead. You needn't scare a man half to death because you want to talk with him. I was dreaming that Dr. Cook and I were searching for the west pole out in Oregon."

Mrs. Bowser looked at him for a minute, and then began:

"Mr. Bowser, I want to know why you exaggerate the way you do. It is getting to be something shameful, and it has got to stop."

"What do you mean, woman?" he exclaimed as she suddenly roused up.

"I will tell you what I mean, sir. One evening about six weeks ago our minister and his wife called. During the conversation he mentioned that a friend of his passed through the fire in the north woods of Canada two or three years ago. He said that his friend saw two black bears with their fur afire. You remember, don't you?"

"Yes, I remember."

RULING CRIPPLES JUVENILE COURT

Denver, Colo., Nov. 2.—The jurisdiction of the juvenile court of Denver, presided over by Judge Ben E. Lindsey, to try adults charged with crimes against minors irrespective of the nature of the crime, was denied in a decision by the state supreme court. "The juvenile court is deprived of one of its strongest and most important functions because of the ruling," said Judge Lindsey.

DRYS ATTACKED

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 2.—45, Charles Bennett and 45, Charles Mowry, chairman of the Henry County Anti-Saloon league, were egged and a number of women were spattered at an open-air dry meeting in Okolona when Mowry closed his speech. Street light wires were cut and the eggs were hurled at them. Mowry was also roughly handled before Sheriff Gray appeared and quieted the crowd.

FAYETTE NOT THE WORST CHOLERA STRICKEN COUNTY

Situation Improving Here While Growing Worse Among Some Neighboring Counties, Is the Claim of Local Veterinarian, Who is in Touch With Situation.

Dr. Neil B. Jones, well known veterinarian of this city, and who is well informed on the hog cholera outbreak in this part of Ohio is authority for the statement that less hog cholera exists in Fayette county at the present time than in some of the adjoining counties.

Dr. Jones says that a great injustice has been done to Fayette county by a statement issued some two or three weeks ago by State Veterinarian Dr. A. S. Cooley, which was interpreted to mean that the hog cholera epidemic centered in Fayette, and that it was far worse here than elsewhere.

Dr. Jones stated that there was more cholera in Franklin county than in Fayette; more in Highland—almost twice as much, in fact, more in Madison county and more in Ross county, while in other adjoining counties the situation was equally as bad as it is in Fayette.

The cholera situation in Fayette is improving right along, Dr. Jones states, a thing which is good news to Fayette countians in general.

Professor Donald J. Kays and 24 students of the O. S. U. Animal Husbandry Department spent a day in this vicinity recently judging thoroughbred stock. In the forenoon they were at Roy Heglar's farm, judging Polled-Angus cattle and Belgian horses.

The afternoon was spent at Ed Klever's village farm judging classes of Poland-China hogs.

They traveled in four big Packard cars with their drivers.

Mr. Klever has in his time been judge at Chicago several times of the students contest classes sent from the university of the different states and entered for the International contests. In speaking of these boys' work Mr. Klever says this class appears unusually quick and promising and fully up to not superior to those who have heretofore visited his place.

HEAVY VOTE IS POLLED IN ALL PRECINCTS

One of the heaviest votes ever recorded in an "off" year is being polled throughout Fayette county today and some say the vote will set a new record.

Heavy voting began early and continued brisk throughout the day, the affair passing off with much activity on the part of the wet and dry workers and the various candidates.

The rural vote is reported unusually heavy, and at 2:15 in this city First Ward A had polled 190 votes out of the 250 in the precinct; 4th ward A had 161 out of a total of 237 and 2nd ward A had 215 votes out of a total of 390.

As the vote on the amendments and referendum vote will be counted first in most precincts, the result for mayor is expected to come in slowly.

EMPIRE THEATER

There are many bits of excellent character drawing in "The Shepherd of the Hills," dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's most widely read novel, which comes to the Empire for its second annual engagement tonight.

It is a beautiful play filled with tears and laughter, one cannot help laughing or crying in turn. If his heart is right. The people that move within it are so human that the auditor will pick them out for like and dislike, as if he had really known them in flesh, rather than on the boards of the stage. advt.
